11 CONVICTED OF MURDER IN EXECUTION BY BLACK LEGION

One Freed, Seven Guilty in First Degree and Four, Including Two Who Left Case in Hands of Judge, in Second.

VERDICT REACHED IN HOUR AND HALF

Members of Organization Alleged to Have Plotted Kidnaping and Shooting of WPA Worker Near Detroit Last May 12.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—Nine men were convicted today by a Circuit Court jury in the Black Legion kidnaping and killing of Charles A. Poole, WPA worker, last May 12. Seven of the defendants were convicted of first-degree murder, and two others of second-degree murder. Herschell Gill, the tenth defendant whose fate rested in the hands of the jury, was acquitted. Those convicted of first-degree murder are Harvey Davis, Colonel in the organization; John Rannerman, Ervin D. Lee, Edgar Baldwin, Lowell Rushing, Urban Lipps and Paul R. Edwards. The two convicted of second-degree murder are Virgil Morrow and Thomas R. Craig.

Jury Out Hour and a Half.
The jury deliberated an hour and 20 minutes.

Mrs. Rebecca Poole, widow of the murdered man, was among those in the courtroom to hear the verdict.

After the foreman of the jury had announced the count on which each of the nine was convicted, Judge Moynihan found John S. Vincent and Albert Stevens, who had waived jury trial, guilty of second-degree murder.

County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrae and Assistant Attorney-General Chester P. O'Hara, jointly handling the case for the State, disagreed in closing arguments yesterday.

O'Hara told the jury that one defendant should be acquitted and that five of the others might be entitled to the benefit of "a reasonable doubt."

Demand 12 Convictions.
McCrae demanded the conviction of all 12 charged with taking Poole to a roadside ditch, where he was killed. He charged, after legions members were indicted against him by false rumors that Poole mistreated his wife.

Bernard W. Cruse, arguing for the defense, placed the blame for the killing on Dayton Dean, who pleaded guilty and testified for the State. Cruse contended that it was ridiculous to assume that Poole's death was plotted by a group. Dean testified he was selected to be the executioner and that he fired five shots into Poole's body.

Five of those convicted of first-degree murder—Davis, Lee, Lipps, Edwards and Baldwin—were present when Poole was shot to death. Dean, Rannerman and Rushing were charged with taking an active part in the death plot. Craig and Morrow attended the meeting in Findlater Hall where the State charged the execution plot was agreed on.

Stevens and Vincent, the oldest of the defendants, also were at the Findlater Hall meeting. Under Michigan law, the mandatory penalty for first-degree murder is a life imprisonment. Second-degree conviction leaves the sentence to the discretion of the Court.

The Judge denied defense motions for the acquittal of Stevens, Vincent, Craig, Morrow and Rannerman. O'Hara suggested that the jury acquit Gill and expressed doubt about the guilt of Craig, Morrow, Rannerman, Stevens and Vincent.

Has No Doubt on Others.
Of the remaining six who stood off, O'Hara said, "They knew that Poole had been kidnapped and false imprisonment, and they knew what they were going to do. They were going to kill him. There is no doubt about your verdict should be. Poole was not a trap."

Those O'Hara asked the jury to convict were Davis, Lee, Lipps, Edwards, Baldwin and Rushing. Five of the six except Rushing, he said, were present when Dean shot Poole to death.

THREE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN COLORADO SNOWSTORM

10 Other Persons Lose Lives in Auto Accidents, Most of Them Attributed to Weather.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Sept. 29.—An airplane crash which killed three persons was attributed to Colorado's worst September snowstorm which moderated today into a thin drizzle of rain. Ten other persons were killed in automobile accidents, most of them attributed to the weather.

For blocks in Denver trees that had grown for more than 50 years were battered to the ground by the storm. Some trunks a foot or more thick were split. Not a single tree of the city escaped loss. In some blocks every tree was splintered and knocked to the pavement.

The airplane accident, in which two men and a woman lost their lives, occurred near Battlement Butte, in Southern Colorado. L. A. Bush, rancher, saw the plane strike a hilltop during the snowstorm yesterday morning and, with two others, made his way to the wreckage. The victims were identified as Pilot C. H. Chidlaw of El Paso, Tex., and Mrs. and Mrs. Ben T. Elkins of San Francisco.

Three nut gatherers who became lost in a snowstorm Saturday were sought in New Mexico mountains.

CAPT. HALSE LEADS AT CAIRO IN 6500-MILE RACE TO AFRICA

Averages 180 Miles an Hour From England, Clouston second, Seven Other Ships in Contest.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29.—Capt. S. Halse led the nine England-to-Johannesburg flyers into this Egyptian city tonight. He landed at 8:07 p. m., having averaged 180 miles an hour from Portsmouth, and took off again at 8:48 p. m. A. E. Clouston, reaching Cairo at 8:39 p. m., was in second place.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Sept. 29.—Civilian and Royal air force flyers headed nine planes across the English Channel at dawn today, opening the all-British race to Johannesburg, 6500 miles away.

The flyers hoped to make the trip in slightly under 40 hours, although a time limit of 120 hours was set to qualify for the $50,000 in prizes.

Isidore W. Schlesinger, American born rancher, posted the awards as a feature of the Johannesburg Empire Exposition.

Besides Halsey and Clouston the entrants were Lieut. Tommy Rose, C. W. A. Scott, co-winner with T. Campbell Black of the 1934 England-Australia race; Capt. A. M. Miller, Victor Smith, D. W. Llewellyn, C. F. Hughesdon, C. G. M. Alington, Lieut. P. H. Booth, Max H. Findlay and Kenneth Waller. Some of them are teamed.

WOMAN POURS OIL IN STOVE; SON, 5, BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. Reginald Allbritton of Alton Is Hurt in Explosion in Home.

Dexter Allbritton, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Allbritton, was fatally burned today when his mother used a can of kerosene to start a fire in a laundry stove in the basement of their home at 615 Brookside avenue, Alton.

Mrs. Allbritton, burned on the arms and body, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Both ran from the basement when the can exploded, and their burning clothing was extinguished by neighbors. Allbritton, a truck driver, entered the Madison County Tuberculosis Sanatorium yesterday.

FRENCH DEPUTIES VOTE TO DEVALUE FRANC, 350 TO 221

Blum Bases Plea on Co-Operation With U. S. and Britain in Establishing Equilibrium.

CHANGE IN TEXT ORDERED IN SENATE

Radical Socialists Refuse to Grant Government Unrestricted Powers to Keep Prices Down.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Devaluation of the French franc to adjust it with the British pound and United States dollar was approved today by the Chamber of Deputies after a 25-hour session. The vote on the Government-sponsored proposal was 350 to 221.

The devaluation measure, which reduces the gold content of the franc by between one-quarter and one-third, was sent immediately to the Senate.

Exportation and importation of gold was prohibited in a decree published after the session in the official journal. The order became effective immediately.

Nine radical Socialists, joined by two other conservative adherents to their group, voted against devaluation, on which the Government received one of its smallest majorities. The Popular Front won its first vote of confidence June 6 by a margin of 384 to 210, but the Chamber and lobbies considered it had held firmly together despite the controversial issue.

Situation Like Roosevelt's.
Co-operation of the United States and Great Britain in establishing a "monetary equilibrium" agreement was cited by Premier Leon Blum in a final appeal to the Deputies. He asserted the devaluation bill was one item in the French social reform program, which he compared to recovery legislation in the United States.

"President Roosevelt multiplied his trials until he found a solution," he said. "The Premier declared, 'Radical Socialists Senators, in caucus, rejected the Government's devaluation text. Then the Radicals, majority party in the upper house, instructed the Finance Committee to draw up a new text minus the clause which gives the Premier a free hand to prevent price increases.'"

The Radical Socialists explained their vote as one of devotion to the plan to give the Government dictatorial powers to check a rising cost of living, without parliamentary restraints.

The Senate Finance Committee, headed by former Premier Joseph Caillaux, began work on the new text, designed to restrict the Government to the employment of measures approved by Parliament to keep prices down. The new text will be submitted to the Senate tomorrow. The Senate is expected to approve it and return it to the Chamber tomorrow night.

Denounced by Right.
The measure met immediate resistance from the "Left Republican party group" of the Senate which belongs actually to the political right wing. The group denounced the financial measure as a "hostile project which consecrates the act of savings and makes a heavy menace weigh on the farm interests."

The bill specifically reduces the gold content of the franc from 65.5 milligrams to between 49 and 43 milligrams sets up a stabilization fund of 10,000,000,000 francs and gives the administration sweeping powers to prohibit price increases.

A vigorous attack on the Government's proposal to readjust salaries of public functionaries on a sliding scale caused abandonment of the project. Premier Blum, instead, asked for sweeping authority to prohibit price raising.

To Safeguard Gold.
In his appeal for the Chamber's approval, the Socialist Premier said the three nations accord for "monetary equilibrium" opened the way for France to "safeguard her gold reserves."

"At the same time we can safeguard the social results obtained by augmentation of our purchasing power," he told the Deputies. "I am astonished," he asserted, "that some people have not understood the importance of the accord signed by the three Powers."

The Premier said the strike situation was easing and assured the Chamber occupation of factories by striking workers would not continue. "Strikes and occupations were

1000 NOT FOUND IN MAIL CHECKUP OF REGISTRATION

Letters Returned to Board, Which Will Strike Names Unless Addressees Appear by Friday Night.

TOTAL OF 3684 NOTICES SENT OUT

Number Not Delivered Indicates Some Padding, but Insignificant in Enrollment of 429,847.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

Approximately 1000 of 3684 letters sent out by the Board of Election Commissioners to names on the registration rolls whose owners the clerk-canvassers were unable to find last Friday and Saturday, were returned by the Postoffice today with the notation that the addressees could not be found.

Return of the letters was interpreted as indicating that there was at least that much padding in the registration the first four days of last week, an insignificant total in view of the registration of 429,847.

Unless the owners of the names to which the 1000 letters were addressed should, in some manner, learn that the Election Board seeks to confirm their registration, and should make their explanations before Friday night, the names will be struck from the rolls.

Some Registrants Appear.
Six or eight of the registrants who could not be found by the canvassers and who have since received letters from the board were at the election office when it opened this morning to make their explanations why they had not been found and to submit proof of residence at the addresses they had given in the registration.

During the morning the number waiting to give such proof increased and by 10:30 about 50 were in line. Where explanations and proof were accepted names were left on the rolls. Voters whose registration had been questioned by letter must submit proof of residence on or before Friday. Otherwise their names will be struck from the rolls.

Recipients of the letters were referred to clerks of the Election Board for rulings on their statements. Rulings on exceptional cases were punishable by prison terms of from two to five years.

This was the second precinct to be investigated by the present grand jury, which is occupying itself with one of the three chief phases of the Post-Dispatch exposure of fraudulent registration and voting in the August primary. Last week the jury indicted the six election officials of the Twentieth Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward on similar charges.

Shoulders and Dollard were arrested last night at Shoulders' jewelry store, 1903 North Grand boulevard, which was the precinct's polling place. Bond for these two, and for Steinbrecher, the other Republican official, was supplied by John J. Hurley, Republican City Committeeman for the Twentieth Ward. Each gave bond of $5000, returnable Oct. 9 before Judge Joseph Dickman in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Bonds of the other three are returnable Oct. 5 before Judge James W. Griffin in Court of Criminal Correction. Clays' bond was signed by Moe Kanner, a professional bondsman. James Egan, also a professional bondsman, signed the bonds of Durham and McAndrew.

Two Served Last Week.
Clays and McAndrew were re-appointed as election officials by the former Election Board before the ouster and the new board sent letters to them today, directing them to report to the office of the Election Commissioners. It was expected that they would be dismissed. Clays served in last week's

FELONY CHARGES AGAINST 6 MORE POLL OFFICIALS

Judges, Clerks of Precinct 2, Ward 20 Indicted for Making False Canvass and Return of Votes.

The six election officials who served in the Second Precinct of the Twentieth Ward for the primary election last August were under indictment today on felony charges voted by the grand jury, which opened the precinct's ballot box in its investigation of loquacious returns there. Those indicted are:

John J. McAndrew, 4054 Kennerly avenue, Democratic judge.

James L. Durham, 4026A North Newstead avenue, Democratic judge.

Arthur J. Steinbrecher, 3639 Cottage avenue, Republican judge.

Joseph J. Dollard, 4160 Maffitt avenue, Republican judge.

Arthur Clays, 2711 North Grand boulevard, Democratic clerk.

Ernest O. Shoulters, 1903 North Grand, Republican clerk.

Two indictments were voted against each of them, on charges making a false canvass and return of votes and on the other charges making a false canvass and return of votes cast in the election of party committee members, held at the same time and on the same ballots. Both offenses are punishable by prison terms of from two to five years.

This was the second precinct to be investigated by the present grand jury, which is occupying itself with one of the three chief phases of the Post-Dispatch exposure of fraudulent registration and voting in the August primary. Last week the jury indicted the six election officials of the Twentieth Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward on similar charges.

600 Priests Reported Killed By Government Troops Just Before Retreat From Toledo

Everything Destroyed Around the Alcazar—Loyal Army Said to Have Lost 500 Men in Fighting.

LET HIS SON DIE RATHER THAN GIVE UP THE ALCAZAR

Commander Sent Note to Hostage Telling Him He Refused Loyalists' Proposal

By the Associated Press.
LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 29.—A story that Colonel Jose Moscarda, insurgent commander of Toledo, sacrificed his son rather than surrender the fortress was reported today from the Fascist-captured city by the correspondent of Diario Noticias.

The correspondent said the Government, during the 72-day siege of the Alcazar, sent Moscarda a note informing him his son was a hostage and would be executed unless the Alcazar was surrendered.

The commander sent back a note to his son which read: "Those traitors have proposed that I should save your life at the cost of the lives of my brave men and my honor. I hope you will die like a hero after praying loudly: 'Long live Spain! Your life will then be eternal.'"

The son was executed forthwith, the correspondent added.

By the Associated Press.
CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Sept. 29.—First reported sunk in a sea fight, the Spanish Government destroyer, Gravis, reached here today and landed several wounded members of the crew.

They reported the Government destroyer Almirante Juan Fernandez was sunk in the Straits of Gibraltar by the insurgent cruiser Canarias.

The captain of the French liner Koutoubia wireless Tangier he had taken aboard 40 men from the Almirante Fernandez.

Reports from Casablanca said the Spanish Government fleet had been bombarding Tarifa ceaselessly since 3 a. m.

ETHIOPIANS ORDERED TO STOP CRAWLING AS OBESANCE SIGN

Viceroy Says Slaves Do That and Italy Wants Them to Be Conscious of 'Dignity as Men.'

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Sept. 29.—Ethiopians were commanded yesterday to desist from dropping to the floor as a sign of obeisance to their Italian conquerors.

Italian Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani issued this decree after presiding at ceremonies celebrating the end of the Ethiopian rainy season. When he opened his audience, the Ethiopians fell down and crawled on the floor.

Only slaves do that, Graziani proclaimed, and Italy "desires her Ethiopian citizens free to have perfect consciousness of their dignity as men."

REBEL ARMY AT TOLEDO BEGINS DRIVE ON MADRID

Insurgents Push Northward—Other Forces Trying to Encircle Enemy Between Avila and Maqueda, West of Capital.

LOYALISTS BUILD DEFENSE SYSTEM

Another Call to Arms Issued by Government—Cabinet Ministers Go to Nearby Towns to Appeal for Support.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 29.—After a celebration of the capture of Toledo Sunday, insurgent forces began a fresh drive today toward Madrid, major objective of their advance. Madrid is about 50 miles north of Toledo.

Fascist headquarters reported the "maneuver is developing" toward the capital while insurgent troops made an encircling movement around Government militiamen between Avila and Maqueda, west of Madrid.

Retreating Government troops were unable to flee from Toledo over Tagus River bridges, which were destroyed during the Fascist advance on the provincial capital. Insurgent commanders reported the Government columns were scattering in disorder south of Toledo.

Loyalists Make Counter Attack on Rebels Holding Bargas.
(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

WITH THE GOVERNMENT FORCES RETREATING FROM TOLEDO NEAR MOCEJON, Spain, Sept. 29.—The rush of reinforcements to the Toledo sector was lessened today as the Government built a defense system for the capital. The Spanish Cabinet issued another call to arms.

Government commanders tried to co-ordinate their scattered forces near Madrid and at Bargas. At Bargas, just west of the main highway between Madrid and Toledo, loyalists began a counter-attack against insurgents who held the town.

A militia Captain said the Government troops were forced to abandon the first northern village on the highway—Olas del Rey—after a long bombardment by Fascist planes.

Other troops congregated on this secondary road to the west.

Many Recruiting Posters.
The campaign in Madrid opened with an effort to enlist all possible fighters to defend the capital. Cabinet ministers went to nearby points to seek support for their depleted forces. Madrid was plastered with recruiting posters. Many construction workers obtained leaves of absence and joined their comrades in the militia divisions.

Staffs of offices and stores were reduced to skeleton proportions. This correspondent was able to confirm that insurgent columns under Colonel Yague had not been able to occupy an important railroad junction east of Toledo.

Strong Government forces held positions at Villavieja, 30 miles south of Madrid. Raids by Fascist flyers on the Santa Cruz Hospital in Toledo forced the Socialist militiamen to retreat from the city, a militia captain asserted. He declared the insurgent bombers made the hospital the key point of their attack and "made it terrible for three days."

Appeal by Papers.
"Defense of the capital demands solidarity," the Communist newspaper Mundo Obrero said. "A common objective will eliminate the possibility of consideration of individual interests. It is all for one and one for all."

The Republican newspaper Heraldo counseled against "false optimism" and said the outcome of the war "will decide the history of Spain."

"Enemy gains in recent hours cannot be disregarded, but our position is theoretically better than the enemy's," said the Socialist organ Claridad.

"The farther their lines extend the weaker they become. Now is the time for a decisive blow which will turn the tide of the war. We must unite all our energy and submit to discipline without question."

PRESIDENT OPENS POLITICAL TOUR IN NEW YORK STATE

To Dedicate Medical College and Address Democratic Convention at Syracuse.

TONIGHT'S SPEECH PAID BROADCAST

Thursday He Will Speak in Pittsburgh—Plans Trip to Denver Later in Campaign.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 29.—With the first speech of his political campaign before him here tonight, President Roosevelt arrived here this afternoon on a special train.

Leaving behind the comparative peace of his Hyde Park estate, the President will devote most of his time from now until the election to the political battle. At brief intervals, however, he will return to Hyde Park and Washington in line with his declared intention of keeping within a day or two of affairs at the capital in view of the troubled European situation.

In this week's tour the President will take part in a variety of ceremonies, including the dedication of the new medical college at Syracuse University this afternoon, and concluding with a world series baseball game at New York Friday.

At his last press conference, the President laid heavy and even ironic stress on the fact that this would be his first political tour. He has shown annoyance at suggestions that his earlier tours, and notably his inspection tour of the drought area, were also a part of the Democratic campaign. The drought tour, the President has insisted, was non-political.

New York Speech Tonight. Tonight's speech, reported to be an aggressive reply to recent Republican attacks on the New Deal, will be delivered before the New York State Democratic convention, guaranteeing an enthusiastic audience. The business of the convention is purely a formality to carry out the ratification of a state ticket long since chosen. It is headed by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who was prevailed upon by the President to seek re-election in order to strengthen Roosevelt's chances in New York.

The way has been prepared for the President's appearance at Syracuse with speeches last night by Senator Robert F. Wagner, one of the leading supporters of the New Deal, National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, and Assistant Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson. All of them assailed the President's political critics, calling "Liberals" to war on "reactionaries."

Broadcast Paid For.

The President will address the convention tonight between 9 and 9:30 p. m. (8:30 St. Louis time). His address will be broadcast over a national network which will include virtually all major stations. It will be the first time that the Democratic Committee has paid for radio time in this campaign, other recent addresses by the President being accepted by the broadcasting companies as presidential messages and therefore not subject to charge. No platform appearances are scheduled for today. But on Thursday the President will make half a dozen talks from the back platform besides a major address at noon at Elkins, W. Va. That night he will speak at Pittsburgh, between 9 and 9:30 p. m.

Will Speak in Denver. In the month to follow the President plans other similar campaign sorties, chiefly into the Middle West, including one to Omaha and Denver. According to plans announced last week, Denver will be the farthest point west in the President's campaign. Another tour will take him to New England where he plans to make at least two major addresses.

Lead autumnal skies prevailed as the presidential special traveled across Mr. Roosevelt's native state and there was occasional rain. The President appeared in excellent health and spirits at the outset of the avowedly political phase of his campaign.

Ruins of the Alcazar After Two-Month Siege

causes, the list said. Fifty-seven insurgents inside the Alcazar "disappeared by explosion" and 30 others deserted or unaccountably disappeared.

"Would Never Give In."

"We would never have given in," said Col. Jose Moscardo, leader of the Fascist forces in the Alcazar who arrived at Talavera with a group of his rescued supporters. "But it was becoming difficult," he declared. "We had only one bottle of chloroform left for operations on the wounded. Food was so scarce I do not like to think about it."

"But the spirit of the Alcazar was indomitable. Always there was a spirit of sacrifice. The Fascists were tunneling underneath to explode us, our engineers calculated in advance every possible effect of such an explosion. One man lost his life as he crawled directly over a planted explosive."

The survivors told how, within the Alcazar's ruins, the birth of two babies was regarded as a good omen. They declared that to the other horrors of the siege was added an assault by poison gas. "All occupants of the Alcazar have a waxen count resulting from spending many days in the underground cellars. One battered radio provided the Fascists with their sole amusement and kept them in touch with the outside world."

The dead were buried in buildings of the training school riding academy. Many were trapped in wreckage. Doctors and nurses cared for the wounded, performing amputations under primitive conditions, but without a single case of infection. Some still live in Alcazar.

Some of the occupants of the fort continued to live there even after rebel forces had taken control of the city. Extreme difficulty was encountered in getting some of the wounded out because of wreckage and fallen masonry.

Col. Moscardo was regarded by his followers as the real hero of the Alcazar's siege for his calm, patient direction. Although food supplies ran short, the Fascists in the underground chambers had supplies of munitions remaining when they were liberated.

"We took with us a million rounds of rifle cartridges from the army munitions factory and used up only about half," explained the officers. "Trench mortars were also used to beat off the Government attacks."

"The most terrible thing we saw during our imprisonment," explained a young Fascist soldier with a bandaged head, "was to look out and see women from Madrid pulling the wires to fire guns so they could send shells crashing in among us."

The Fascist survivors confirmed official insurgent figures which showed that only about 80 of their number were killed and 500 wounded. These figures placed the total in the Alcazar at 1200, although previous reports have made it 1700. Even today, some unofficial estimates said 70 per cent of the total was killed or wounded, but this was not confirmed.

Wheat Obtained for Alcazar in Trips by Night to Storehouse. (Copyright 1936 by the Associated Press.) TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 29.—Survivors of the Alcazar siege declared today they were only able to hold out because they crept during the night to a nearby building where wheat was stored. Several Fascist sympathizers in the fort were shot during these excursions, the survivors related. Ninety-seven horses and 27 mules were eaten during the siege, they said.

The survivors said Government forces defending the city had totaled 5000 men, to whose number were added 6000 militiamen sent from Madrid.

Insurgents said all priests in the Toledo Cathedral were executed with the exception of one who celebrated mass in an improvised chapel underground.

During the last 20 days, the Alcazar survivors said they rationed out black bread, each receiving daily a piece as large as a child's hand. Dynamite thrown by Government attackers tore a large hole in the northern side of the fort. The exterior of the historic Cathedral near the Alcazar was undamaged, although the interior was pillaged.

The Archbishop of Toledo, who was among the besieged Fascists, celebrated mass in the Alcazar chapel after the insurgents took over the city. Rescued and rescuers alike attended the service.

Loyalists Report Dropping 2000 Bombs on Oviedo.

MADRID, Sept. 29.—The War Ministry, in an official bulletin, announced today that Government forces had withstood a bombardment by 15 airplanes near Ollas del Rey, about seven miles northeast of Toledo on the Madrid highway. Government troops also were reported to have seized the village of Villamel, near the highway junction of Maqueda.

Government planes, reports to the Madrid high command said, "completely demoralized the civilians" at Oviedo, northern Fascist stronghold, dropping 2000 bombs. Socialist leaders sent out a call for "5000 brave and daring men," adding:

"Five thousand such men can win victories, whereas 25,000 cowards and deserters will bring about defeat. "Madrid has these brave men, but they should be placed on a war footing immediately. "If we cannot summon all our courage now it will be too late tomorrow."

U. S. SUPREME COURT ASKED TO PASS ON WAGNER ACT

Government Asks for Decision on Validity of Labor Relations Board Law.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Government today asked the Supreme Court to pass on the constitutionality of the Wagner Act establishing a national labor relations board to settle industrial disputes.

The Associated Press recently appealed from an order of the board directing it to reinstate Morris Watson, a discharged employee of the New York office. The order was upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals at New York over the contention of the Associated Press that the act was unconstitutional. Stanley Reed, the Solicitor-General, representing the board, told the Supreme Court in a brief today that the question of the constitutionality of the act "is an important question of Federal law which has not been, but should be settled by this Court."

during a period of revolution," he declared. "But strikes and occupations must not be decided by other than responsible workers' bodies. "They must not last and they will not last. I have confidence the working class will be able to employ the means of persuasion and conciliation."

Blum Objects to Remark.

The Premier defended the social program undertaken by his Government during the last three months, asserting there was no evidence it had failed to achieve its ends. Eugene Pebeiller, Rightist Deputy, remarked after Blum's address, "The Premier recognizes occupation of factories as legal."

Blum arose in protest and Pebeiller asked, "Has the Premier then decided to protect private property?" "I arise," Blum answered, "so that it will not appear that my silence accepts Monsieur Pebeiller's interpretation of what I said."

Throughout the night-long session, helmeted, rifle-bearing mobile guards stood on duty in a large part of Paris. Their presence was not connected with the Chamber's session but to prevent suburban trucks from carrying out a threatened march on the central market.

Revolt of Small Farmers.

Small farmers, irate over competition with large vegetable producers and market regulations which they contend compel them to dump a large part of their produce, had planned to try to prevent unloading of produce trucks at the market. One hundred marchers were arrested and held for a short time as they reached the city's gates. Others in the procession were turned back. The markets were quiet, with sufficient food arriving to meet the city's needs. Later the scheduled strike of gardeners was called off.

French newspapers reported closing of the Stock Exchange resulted in establishment of a "black market" (unofficial stock market), in which securities rose between 10 and 20 per cent and Government bonds rose between 6 and 8 points higher. The newspaper Le Journal declared traders bought and sold on sidewalks near the Bourse.

No Agreement on Pegging Dollar, Morgenthau Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced yesterday that the three-Power monetary accord provided for "no definite agreement" on the dollar-pound ratio, but that the stabilization funds of the three nations would be used to prevent sharp fluctuations.

He told reporters that war debts were not considered in negotiating the agreement, and that he had no comment to make on the Russian State Bank's denial that it attempted to depress the pound Saturday.

Discussing monetary ratios, Morgenthau said "each country will use its discretion" when there are fluctuations in the relationship, and that France, Great Britain and the United States would consult frequently regarding exchange rates. "The understanding is that the (stabilization) funds will work together and that we will be working in the same direction," he said. "The three countries are working together toward stability in foreign exchange. This is nothing but a matter of honor and faith of the three countries in each other. That is the agreement. I don't know of any better way to describe it."

Switzerland's Upper House Accepts Devaluation.

By the Associated Press. BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 29.—The Council of States, Upper House of the Swiss Parliament, overwhelmingly approved last night the Government's decision to devalue the Swiss franc by about 30 per cent. The National Council, the Lower House, considered the measure today.

It calls for stabilization of the Swiss franc at between 190 and 215 milligrams of gold, thus reducing the gold content nearly 30 per cent, and prohibits wholesale and retail merchandise price increases without Government approval.

COUNTY BEGINS REGISTRATION, RECORD LIKELY

Voters Enrolling Today, Also Tomorrow and Saturday — Many Precincts Have Been Changed.

Polling places opened at 8 a. m. today in the 194 precincts of St. Louis County for a three-day registration of voters for the presidential election Nov. 3.

The registration will continue until 8:30 p. m. today, tomorrow and Saturday. This will be the only opportunity for county citizens to qualify as voters in the coming election, as there is no provision in the new permanent registration law for registration of absentees or invalids. Members of the Board of Election Commissioners anticipated the registration would far exceed all former records, not only because of the increase in population but because of greater interest in public matters.

The county's population was recently estimated at 277,000 by Harland Bartholomew, director of the St. Louis Regional Planning Commission, an increase of 66,000 over the population in the census of 1930. On this basis, Owen G. Jackson, chairman of the Election Board, said the registration of voters might be as high as 135,000. The number registered for the 1932 presidential election was about 104,000.

Precinct Boundaries Changed. Following the increase in precincts from 175 to 194 since the August primary, precinct boundaries were changed in many parts of the county and, as a result, many voters today found themselves assigned to new polling places.

The telephone switchboard at County Courthouse was swamped this morning with calls from voters seeking information as to where they should go to register. Workers of both political parties have been busy for several days informing voters in their neighborhoods of the precinct changes.

Under the permanent registration law, passed by St. Louis County at the last session of the Legislature, voters will not have to register again until 1975. The name of each voter will remain on the books until he dies, moves from the county or fails to vote in two successive general elections, in which case he will have to register again.

If Voter Has Moved. If a voter moves from one precinct to another within the county, he must go to the Election Board office in the Courthouse to transfer his registration. New registrations will be accepted at the office on three days each week beginning Nov. 18, except during five-week periods preceding elections.

Each registrant is required to sign his or her name on a card and on two loose-leaf sheets, stating various facts as to age, sex, residence, birthplace and other pertinent data. The card will go into a master file, arranged alphabetically for the entire county and the sheets will be filed separately by precincts. One set will go to polling places at elections, the other remaining in the board offices.

Before being given a ballot, each voter will be required to sign another card, for comparison of his signature with that on the record. Thumbprints will be used in the case of illiterates. On the back of each sheet are spaces to note whether the voter voted at various elections, so that he may be disqualified if he fails to vote at two successive general elections.

Canvass Next Week. The canvass of the registration by precinct clerks will begin next Monday and is to be completed by the end of the following day. The canvassers, one from each party, are required to call at each address from which one or more persons are registered, to determine whether the registrant lives there. For those "not found," cards will be left, instructing them to call at the board office and show cause why their names should not be struck. Judges and clerks of election were appointed by the Election Board on recommendation of township committeemen and committeewomen of the two major parties.

SPECTATOR STABS MAGICIAN ABOUT TO SAW WOMAN IN TWO

Georges Lalonde, Circus Performer, Wounded With Own Sword, In Quebec Village.

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 (Canadian Press).—Georges Lalonde, 22-year-old circus magician, was stabbed in the back with his own sword Sunday night by a spectator in a small Canadian town, who objected to seeing Lalonde "saw a woman in two." Lalonde was brought to a hospital here.

The assailant escaped. Police later announced they were holding Henry Howard, 51, of Calumet Island, Quebec, for questioning.

The stabbing occurred in Shawville, Quebec. Physicians said the sword pierced Lalonde's right lung.

FARM POLICY CRITIC

Former Head of AAA Says President Has Not Kept Promises to Farmer.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—

George H. Peek, former head of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and of the Export-Import banks, formally announced his break with President Roosevelt on the radio last night and said he would support the Republican candidate for President, Alf M. Landon.

Actually Peek broke with Roosevelt some time ago. The Republican National Committee has been using his material.

In his formal declaration, Peek contended Roosevelt had not abided by his pledges in the 1932 campaign against reduction of farm tariffs, favoring expansion of markets for surplus "through Yankee trading," and for "a tariff benefit on export crops, the price of which was determined by world markets."

"The Republican party and its candidate," Peek said, "have not squarely the issue of these broken promises by picking up the promises dishonored by Mr. Roosevelt and his administration and by pledging themselves to their honest fulfillment."

Turning to the administration's tariff-trading policy, Peek said it had "prevented important sales of farm products" abroad and that the State and Agriculture Departments had decided against farmers' interests "in every instance."

"Many of my old associates in the long farm fight, who turned to Roosevelt in 1932, are still supporting him, regardless of the wreckage of his promises to agriculture," Peek said. "Some of them seek to justify their stand by saying, 'Look what Roosevelt has done for agriculture.' My reply is, Look what Roosevelt has done to agriculture. He has taken the American farmer out of foreign markets and has put the foreign farmer into the American market."

"As a result of these policies American gross farm income has dropped from $8,000,000,000 a year, during the '20s, which were lean years for agriculture, farm income averaged $11,000,000,000 yearly. I cannot believe that $500,000,000 in Government checks is adequate return for $3,000,000,000 loss in income."

Frank Bernice, owner of the flat and resident of the second floor, told policemen he was at a loss to explain the presence of the bomb. Similar statements were made by Duco and Katz. About 15 persons, members of the families in the flats, were in their quarters when it was discovered.

LOUIS LONDE REFUSES TO TELL ABOUT $50,000

Declines to Answer Questions at Bankruptcy Hearing on Ground It Might Incriminate Him.

NO LIGHT THROWN ON PAROLE STORY

Isadore Londe, Ex-Convict Brother, Testifies as to Appearances Before Prison Board.

Louis Londe, a partner in the bankrupt Pearl Garment Co., refused to answer any questions at a hearing yesterday before Referee in Bankruptcy Hope, on the ground that to do so might tend to incriminate him.

The result was that attorneys for the receiver and the creditors were left entirely in the dark concerning the disappearance of $50,000 in cash from the firm, which Morris Londe, the other partner, had testified he gave to Louis as the latter's representation it was to pay for a parole for Isadore, a third brother, under compulsion of some kind that made him fear for his life if it was not paid.

Louis, the first witness of the day, made it clear, after stating his name, that he would not talk. His answer to every question was the same: "I refuse to answer on the ground it might tend to incriminate me."

His mother, Mrs. Anna Londe, a widow of 827 Westgate avenue, testifying through an interpreter, denied that she was ever a partner in the firm, although her name was signed to financial statements for credit as such, and said she did not know where the shop was located, nor did she know that any money was paid for a parole for Isadore.

Isadore Londe Testifies. Isadore, former Egan gangster, who served 12 years of a 10 to 20 year sentence in the Michigan penitentiary for the holdup robbery of a jewelry store in Detroit, was the last witness of the day.

When he returned to St. Louis, he testified, he went to work for his brothers at the garment company, doing odd jobs, no set salary, and he said his brothers gave him $10 or $15 a week for spending money.

Later, he said, he went to work for the owner of the five taverns as chauffeur. His duties were to drive his employer around to the taverns in the morning, after which he would stay at the garment company "to keep out of trouble," he said.

Robert Burnett, attorney for the receiver, who questioned him, inquired if he had inherited any part of the business from his father, who died five years ago, and he said he did not know whether he had or not, remarking that he was not interested as he felt he did not deserve it.

The paroled convict said he was present a week ago last night at the family home when Louis first told Morris that $50,000 had not been paid for his parole, but that he had dissipated it gambling. He said Morris felt pretty bad about it and took it pretty hard.

Tells of Parole Hearing. He then related that he was first given a hearing before the Parole Commissioner of Michigan in 1932, but his application was denied. A year and a half later he was again given a hearing, but again it was denied. He was called up before the commissioner a third time last January and was paroled March 26.

Although Louis, on taking the witness stand, had let it be known at once that he would not answer questions about anything, Harry S. Gleick, attorney for the creditors, and Burnett asked him a series of questions, all of which he refused to answer. In each instance the Referee sustained the right of the witness not to answer if he felt an answer might incriminate him.

He was asked about the $50,000 in cash he received from Morris, which Morris, in sworn testimony last Tuesday, said Louis took, leaving him with the understanding it was to pay for the parole that was obtained for Isadore. Louis refused to answer.

The Post-Dispatch last Monday disclosed the business was wrecked by the payment of $25,000 for the parole. Not until that night, after Morris had also refused to answer questions about the parole payment on the ground it might incriminate him, did Louis "confess" to Morris he had deceived him on that point, and told him he had lost the money gambling.

Refuses to Identify Signature. The creditors' attorneys, and agents of the Department of Justice who are working on the case, take no stock in Louis Londe's statement that he lost $50,000 in one month gambling at dice, and the hearings are being held to get at the facts. Louis explained in beginning that, as he and his brother, Morris, had been arrested on a charge of concealing assets, following Morris' testimony of last

WIFE GOES ON TRIAL FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Mrs. Alma Podesta Charged With Second-Degree Murder in Rooming House Shooting.

Trial of Mrs. Alma Podesta, 38 years old, charged with second-degree murder for the fatal shooting of her husband, Harold, in their furnished room at 1728A South Jefferson avenue, last May 21, began today before a jury in Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg's court.

The first witness for the State was Mrs. Esther Holmes, who now lives at 3436 South Compton avenue, but who ran the rooming house in which the Podestas lived at the time of the shooting. She said that she had frequently heard the Podestas quarreling about money and that on one occasion she knew that Podesta had pushed his wife down the steps.

She was awakened early on the morning of the shooting by a noise, she said, and then Mrs. Podesta came running down to her and said: "Something terrible has happened. Hurry and come with me." Mrs. Holmes said she went upstairs and found Podesta lying across the bed in his room, bleeding from the head, and that there was an open razor lying on the floor.

Shot in Back of Head. Podesta was killed by a single shot in the back of the head. Charles Straub, attorney for Mrs. Podesta, said in his opening statement that he would show the defendant had been slashed with a razor by her husband and that she fired in self-defense.

Mrs. Holmes testified that about a month before the shooting she had seen Mrs. Podesta come home with a pistol and asked her what she was going to do with it. "I need it for protection," Mrs. Holmes said, Mrs. Podesta replied.

On cross-examination Mrs. Holmes identified pictures of Mrs. Podesta taken after the shooting which showed her with cuts on the arms and legs. Mrs. Holmes said she noticed these cuts when she came upstairs.

Both Married Before. Podesta and his wife were married in 1933 in Festus, Mo. It was his third marriage and her second. Mrs. Podesta had divorced her first husband, by whom she had three children now living in Festus, and had gone to work as a waitress in a restaurant. Podesta was a frequent customer and soon she married him.

They came to St. Louis soon afterward, when Podesta lost his job in a shoe factory and Mrs. Podesta was fired as waitress. Unable to find work, they lived by pawning what valuables they had and finally went on relief. Then, one day, Podesta got a job in a chemical company and they had a little money again.

But money led only to bickering and the two, according to Mrs. Podesta's statement to police after the shooting, were arguing about whether or not to spend $2 for a house dress for Mrs. Podesta when the quarrel became violent and finally resulted in the shooting.

week, he felt that to answer any questions might incriminate him. He would not even identify his signature on checks, made payable to cash and signed by himself and Morris, with which he drew about $50,000 in thousand-dollar bills from banks in July and August. Nor would he identify books of the firm or receipts for any questions designed to throw light on the mystery of who got the money or what has become of it.

The hearing will be resumed at 2 p. m. Thursday.

canvass of the new registration in the Second Precinct of the Twentieth Ward. McAndrew was Democratic judge in the Third Precinct. The Election Board sent a letter to John Steinbrecher, who was Republican judge in the Third Precinct for the last registration, directing him to report to the board's office. The address given for John Steinbrecher in the board's records is the same as that of the Arthur J. Steinbrecher who was indicted and the purpose of the board's letter was to determine whether there were two Steinbrechers, or whether the two names applied to the same person.

Substitution of Votes Alleged. In the Second Precinct of the Twentieth Ward it was reported, shortly after the primary election, that ballots cast by voters had been destroyed before the count was made, and other ballots substituted for them.

A remark made to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday by Herman Ziegenbalg, 3742A Cottage avenue, who was a witness before the grand jury, as was his wife and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Viola Ziegenbalg, tended to substantiate that report. "Those weren't our ballots," Ziegenbalg said outside the grand jury room. "We didn't vote that way."

It was assumed that while in the grand jury room he and the members of his family had been shown what purported to be the ballots they had cast in the primary election.

Ziegenbalg is a brother of Alderman Walter Ziegenbalg of the Twentieth Ward, a member of the Democratic faction aligned against Mayor Dickmann. The vote in the precinct was overwhelmingly in favor of candidates favored by the Mayor.

219 to 0 Returns in Precinct. Returns in the Second Precinct of the Twentieth Ward which aroused suspicion included a solid vote of 219 for each of the six candidates for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge who were endorsed by party machines, and no votes at all for any of their 19 opponents. Likewise, Maj. Lloyd C. Stark, Democratic nominee for Governor, was shown as receiving 219 votes and his opponent, William Hirth, none.

Republican Committeeman Hurley, who signed the bonds for the indicted Republican precinct officials, also was the beneficiary of a shut-out in this precinct, as was his running mate, Lillian A. Thieroff, who was elected Republican Committeewoman for the Twentieth Ward. Each of them was shown to have received 71 votes to none.

The 219 Democratic voters in the precinct were shown, in that contest for Democratic City Committee members, to have cast 211 ballots for John J. Dwyer and Charlotte Corcoran Lee, and 8 for their opponents, James J. Gallagher and Miss Margaret Burke, the anti-Dickmann candidates.

Gallagher Made Protest. Gallagher told a Post-Dispatch reporter that when he visited the polling place at 7:45 p. m. on election day, 45 minutes after the polls closed, he was told that the count had been completed and that he had received two votes. He protested to James A. Waechter, then chairman of the Election Board, and at Waechter's direction the ballots were removed to the office of the Election Board where a new count showed eight votes for Gallagher.

Witnesses before the grand jury included the unsuccessful candidates for the party committees: Vincent C. Wolf, 4215 Hartford street, who was assigned to the precinct as special deputy election commissioner; Miles Myers, 2427 North Grand boulevard, a Democratic watcher at the polling place,

GRAND JURY TAKES UP PRIMARY VOTE OF FOURTH WARD

Ballot Box and Other Records of Precinct 15 in Jimmy Miller's Domain Subpoenaed.

The September term grand jury, which has indicted 12 precinct election officials on felony charges in the course of its investigation of fraud in the August primary, turned its attention today to the Fourth ward domain of Democratic Boss Jimmy Miller, whose boast is that he "votes 'em like a machine."

The jury was interested particularly in the functioning of the machine in the Fifteenth Precinct, westernmost in the ward, bounded by Leffingwell and Glasgow avenues, Stoddard street and Cass avenue. The polling place was at 1311 North Leffingwell avenue. Subpoenas were issued for the precinct's ballot box and other records of the August primary vote there.

Strange Count of Ballots. In that precinct there appeared to have been a strangely methodical division of the 242 Democratic ballots and 122 Republican ballots which were cast last Aug. 4.

Two candidates for Democratic nominations for Circuit Judge, Thomas J. Rowe Jr. and Joseph J. Ward, each got 242 votes, according to the officials' returns. Four others—Ernest F. Oakley, Morris A. Shenker, Clyde H. Snider and Herman Miller, with 220 votes each, fell 22 votes short of the maximum. The 22 votes went to Joseph F. Dickmann, William B. Flynn, David J. Murphy and Michael J. Scott. The other 15 candidates got none.

All the favored candidates except Shenker appeared on Miller's slate for the six nominations as Circuit Judge. In place of Shenker on the slate was Arthur F. Spaeth, but he was overlooked completely in the Fifteenth Precinct voting. Spaeth, the ward, also, to Flynn, and the politically wise surmised that Miller had changed his mind about Spaeth after the sample ballots were printed.

The Democratic Winners. The Democratic nominees were Dickmann, brother of the Mayor and now Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction; Flynn, now Assistant Circuit Attorney; Rowe, attorney whose practice has been chiefly in criminal cases; Ward, a member of the Board of Education; Murphy, now Assistant Circuit Attorney; and Scott, Alderman of the Twenty-first Ward. Only Rowe and Ward were on Miller's slate, unless the supposition that he switched from Spaeth to Flynn on election day is correct.

Last Sept. 19, Kerckhoff deposited with the court clerk $675 for the care of the children for July, August and September which, he said, he was unable to pay to his former wife because he could not reach her. The children are Jennie Henrietta, 10 years old, and Robert, 9. Mrs. Flegle obtained $130,500 gross alimony at the time of the divorce.

In the contest for the Democratic nomination for Governor, Maj. Lloyd C. Stark was shown as receiving 208 votes in the precinct to 34 for his unsuccessful opponent, William Hirth.

On the Republican side, all the 122 ballots were cast for six candidates for nomination as Circuit Judge, and their four opponents got no votes at all.

If the grand jury, in its inquiry into the alleged fraud, follows the procedure adopted in investigating the two precincts which it took up previously, it will open the ballot box, make a new count of the ballots, and summon some voters of the precinct before it, presumably to tell how they voted.

WIDOW, 63, ENDS LIFE Mrs. Nellie Diehl, 63-year-old widow, ended her life yesterday by slashing her wrists in the bathroom at the house where she roomed, 5218 Raymond avenue. Her body was found by her landlady, Mrs. Stella Arndt, who called through a transom when she was unable to open the door.

In a long note which police found in her room, Mrs. Diehl said it was not worth while "to go on living and perhaps learn upon others already overburdened." A daughter, Mrs. Ralph Wilkerson of Blackwell, Ok., survives.

and 12 voters of the precinct, among them the three Ziegenbalgs. The grand jury has spent four days, a week's elapsed time, on its investigation of each of the precincts considered so far.

Trials of Two Former Election Clerks Set for Oct. 21. Russell Leslie, 2607 Blair avenue, and William A. Otten, 2803A Bienville, who were election clerks in the Tenth Precinct of the Third Ward for the registration last June 18, pleaded not guilty to charges of willful neglect to canvass the precinct when arraigned today before Judge James W. ## MISSING CREDIT UNION TREASURER SHORT $2000

Dooley B. Todd Sought on Complaint of M-K-T Office Employees' Organization. Dooley B. Todd, treasurer of the Office Employees' Credit Union of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railway Co., was ordered arrested yesterday on complaint of Vincent V. Masterson, president of the union, who said Todd disappeared a week ago and that a check on his accounts revealed a shortage of $2000.

Todd, who is 30 years old and unmarried, lived with his mother, stepfather and brother at 4366 Taft avenue. The brother said he left in the morning as usual on Sept. 21, but did not appear at work, and later sent his mother a special delivery letter in which he told her she would learn in a few days the reason for his leaving. It was postmarked St. Louis.

The brother said Todd had suffered a heat stroke in July and had not been in good health since. He did not discuss his affairs with his family, the brother added. He had been employed as a secretary in the industrial department of the railroad offices in the Railway Exchange Building for 10 years.

As treasurer, Todd was bonded for only $1000. He was described as 5 feet 4 inches tall, having brown eyes and wearing a blue suit and gray hat. Police were informed he carried 30 railroad passes.

D. C. KERCKHOFF SUES TO HAVE CHILDREN RETURNED TO STATE

Alleges Ex-Wife Took Son and Daughter to New York and That He Can't See Them.

Daniel C. Kerckhoff, president of the Pevely Dairy Co., filed a motion in Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller's Court in Clayton yesterday to have the two children by his divorced second wife, who are now in her custody, "returned to the jurisdiction of the court."

Kerckhoff complains in the petition that, under an agreement signed by both parties at the time of the divorce last March, his former wife is to have custody of the children during the week but that he is to have them on Saturdays and Sundays. He alleges that his former wife, now Mrs. J. Leslie Flegle, moved to New York on July 22 last, taking the children with her, and that he has been unable to see them since then.

Last Sept. 19, Kerckhoff deposited with the court clerk $675 for the care of the children for July, August and September which, he said, he was unable to pay to his former wife because he could not reach her. The children are Jennie Henrietta, 10 years old, and Robert, 9. Mrs. Flegle obtained $130,500 gross alimony at the time of the divorce.

LYMAN T. HAY DIES OF HEART AILMENT

Vice-President of Jefferson Hotel Co. Had Been Ill Four Days.

Lyman T. Hay, vice-president of the New Hotel Jefferson Co., who became through 52 years of hotel management one of the most widely known of American hotel men, died in his room at the Jefferson, of heart disease, at 2:30 a. m. today. He was 77 years old.

Col. Hay, as he was known from his appointment on the staffs of two Governors of Missouri, was indisposed for the last four days. Through reorganization of the property in recent years, his duties in management had been lightened, but he continued to be, to many guests, the personal representative of the hotel, which he had directed since its opening in 1904.

Operated Five Hotels. At one time, his associates recalled today, he operated simultaneously the Jefferson and Planters Hotels in St. Louis, the Arlington and Eastman Hotels in Hot Springs, Ark., and in summer the Grand Hotel at Mackinac Island, Mich.

At all the houses which he directed, but chiefly at the Jefferson, he spent much of his time in the lobby, greeting familiar guests and making new acquaintances. His interest in racing, with the business end of which he was actively connected, and in baseball, aided in establishing and keeping up a number of personal contacts.

He was financially interested for years in Churchill Downs track at Louisville, scene of the annual Kentucky Derby, and was associated with Matt Winn, Bruce Head and others in the company which built Fairmount track at Collinsville, Ill. For several years he was president of the Fairmount Jockey Club.

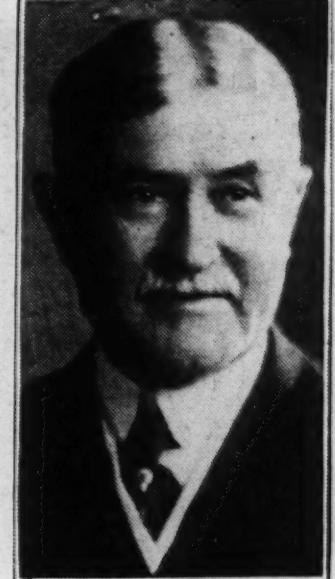

One of the founders of the St. Louis Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau, he was for years a leader in its work. He was active also in prohibition repeal organization, up to 1933.

Born in Illinois. He was born in Newton, Ill., and attended the University of Illinois before going to Chicago and becoming a ribbon clerk in Marshall Field's store. At the same time, his father removed from Illinois to Hot Springs, then a growing health resort, opened the Hay Hotel there, and persuaded young Lyman to quit the ribbon counter and go behind the clerk's desk.

The Hay was a small house, and the young man, who was then newly married, went over to a larger house, the Arlington, as manager. He obtained an interest in the Arlington, and later in the Eastman, and managed the houses through rebuilding and fire episodes.

HOTEL MAN DEAD

—STRAUS PHOTO. LYMAN T. HAY.

A. Faust, built Hotel Jefferson. They took over the chief interest in the Planters, and operated the two houses during the World's Fair of 1904. In the summer of that year the Democratic national convention was held in the Coliseum, on the present Central Library site a block from the Jefferson, and William Jennings Bryan and other distinguished Democrats were guests of the then new hostelry.

Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft were guests at the Jefferson, and Col. Roosevelt's last visit to the house was made in wartime. Mr. Hay was then chairman of the Fifth Ward Draft Board, which had its meeting place at the hotel, and Col. Roosevelt attended one of the meetings, remaining for a half hour, and assisting, at the board's request, in conducting the examination of men who sought exemption from war service.

His motto, formulated after years in the hotel business, was that "The public is always right," and that a complaint from a guest should be followed by rectification, not met with argument. He also said that the traveling public, once its members are known personally to the hotel manager, is as ready to praise as to complain.

Mr. Hay was a Republican, and was one of the presidential electors on the Harding-Coolidge ticket in 1920. He received the rank of Colonel first from Gov. Herbert S. Hadley, Republican, but later had a like appointment from a Demo-

KILLS HIS SECOND BURGLAR IN 5 MONTHS

Venice Tavern Keeper Shoots Man Trying to Break in Through Window.

Earl Wall, proprietor of a tavern on Main street in Venice just across from the Illinois end of the McKinley Bridge, shot and killed a man, about 35 years old, whom he discovered attempting to break into his tavern through a window early today.

The body of the burglar, who has not been identified, was taken to the Parker undertaking establishment in Venice. It was the second time within five months that Wall has killed a burglar. Last May he shot and killed Sonny Dodson, a Negro, whom he found trying to break in through the same window. Wall sleeps in a room in the rear of his tavern. About 2:40 a. m. he was awakened by the barking of his dog. He looked outside and saw a man scraping the putty from one of the windows. He got his shotgun and called to the man to stop.

Wall started to run and climbed over a seven-foot fence that surrounds the yard of the tavern. Wall followed and after a chase of about 60 feet, caught up with him. Wall told police that the man attempted to wrest the shotgun from him and that in the struggle it was discharged, killing the burglar.

Police found that most of the putty had been scraped off of one of the window panes and that another had been broken. Underneath the window they found a brace and some other tools. Parked nearby was an old two-door sedan with a Missouri license, of which police took possession. There was a pinch bar about 18 inches long in the rear seat of the car.

Another attempt to enter Wall's tavern was made about six weeks ago by a man whom Wall also discovered in the act of trying to break through a window. Wall chased this man and fired several shots at him but did not catch him.

cratic Governor, Fred D. Gardner. He was married in 1884 to Miss Lotowna Fellows of Camden, Ark. Mr. and Mrs. Hay had a son and a daughter, both of whom died in infancy. Mrs. Hay died in 1924. His only surviving near relative is a sister, Mrs. Fannie H. Moffitt of Carmi, Ill.

MEETING ON WAYS TO FINANCE CITY'S NEEDS FOR RELIEF

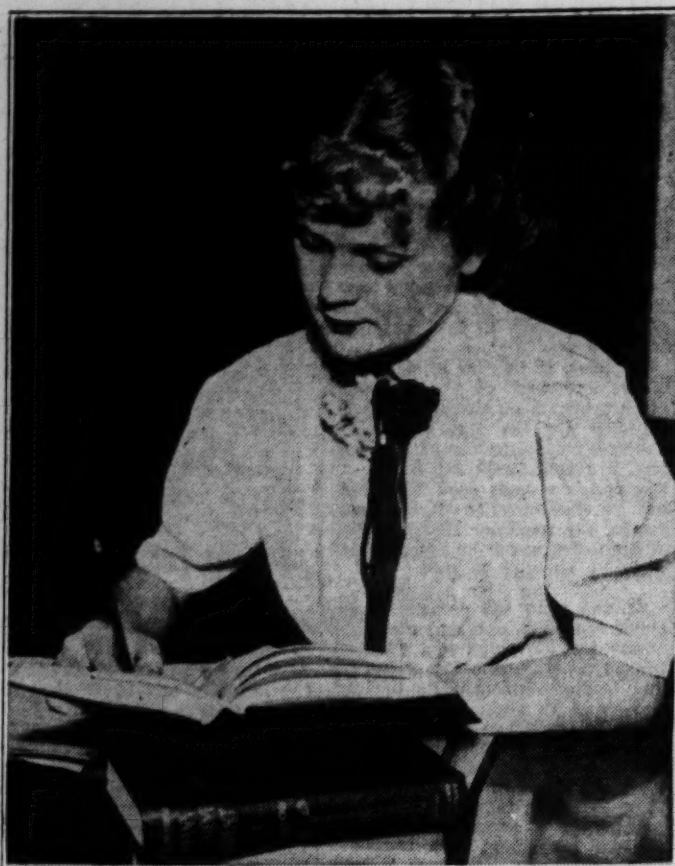

Aldermen, Estimate Board and Citizens' Committee Called by Mayor to Confer Tomorrow.

A meeting of all members of the Board of Aldermen, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment has been called for tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in Mayor Dickmann's office to consider means of raising revenue to meet the approaching relief crisis.

Mayor Dickmann announced he would call the meeting after conferring yesterday with William C. Connett, chairman of the Citizens' Committee. The Mayor said $1,300,000 would be needed to last from December, when it is estimated all present funds will be exhausted, until April, when it is hoped the State Legislature will pass legislation to remove part of the city's relief load.

At the meeting tomorrow all revenue bills suggested 18 months ago to the Board of Aldermen to meet a relief crisis then, will be considered. All were defeated or tabled then, due to pressure of various business groups involved, which objected that the taxes might injure their businesses.

Associate City Counselor John Burkhardt, who drafted most of the bills, will be present to discuss them. Those at the meeting will decide, the Mayor said, which bills, if any, could be approved now.

Budget Director Arthur C. Meyers has proposed a plan to spread the expenditure of the last $606,000 which remains in the city's relief fund over the final three months of this year. P. H. Byrns, co-ordinator of the St. Louis Relief Administrator, criticized the plan, contending that the $606,000 would be needed in October and November and if it were not used then, 3000 or 4000 St. Louisans in need would be denied assistance.

Meyers then suggested that another "crisis campaign" to raise relief funds by voluntary subscription be held in October. He declared that St. Louis faced a large deficit at the end of the fiscal year and no more relief bonds could be issued without jeopardizing the city's credit.

Delinquent Tax Campaign to Meet Relief Crisis Advocated.

A vigorous campaign to collect delinquent taxes as a means of meeting the relief fund crisis was urged on City Collector W. F. Baumann today in a letter by the Committee of Twenty-five, composed of business and professional men. "Failure to press the collection of such taxes increases the pressure on the finances of the city and causes the imposition of additional and, too often, hastily considered forms of taxation which are both ineffectual and burdensome," it was stated.

"Since the Collector's office has not now, nor has it in the past had, any organization for the direction of a delinquent tax collection campaign, we recommend that immediate steps be taken to organize such a campaign under an experienced delinquent tax campaign administrator."

The committee recommended that L. M. Fluhart of Sedalia, who has directed delinquent tax campaigns in several Missouri cities, be retained for such a campaign in St. Louis, and concluded with the observation that without such an attempt to collect back taxes it felt that any additional or increased taxation would be unjustified.

Members of the Committee of Twenty-five are: Wilbur B. Jones, chairman; Arthur B. Baer, James L. Barnegrove, Ingram F. Boyd, Everett L. Brooks, John A. Bush, David R. Calhoun, Martin J. Collins, Walter M. Crunden, Herbert H. Droste, Louis H. Egan, Fred B. Elsmann, George B. Gannett, Richard S. Hawes, W. L. Hemingway, Sidney Maestre, Albert H. Mangelsdorf, Frank M. Mayfield, Edwin B. Meissner, H. Fullerton Place, Frank C. Rand, Fred Z. Salomon, A. Wesley Shapleigh, Tom K. Smith and Paul J. Wieland.

A statement declaring that the responsibility of raising funds for relief rests on the city and that new taxes are necessary, but that help also should be demanded from the Federal and State governments, was issued today by the Permanent Council on Relief Needs.

"The proposed plan of raising funds by private donations is unsound, in view of the experiences of the recent United Charities campaign," it was stated. "We cannot escape the fact that new taxes are necessary to raise funds for relief purposes. We feel, however, that such new taxes should be drawn from the increasing incomes in the higher brackets and from the mounting corporation surpluses; in short by taxing on the ability to pay."

Meanwhile, it was stated, it is the duty of the city and of responsible citizens also to demand action from State and Federal governments.

W. L. Chuas to Charities Post.
William L. Chuas will serve as chairman of the Southwest Region of the General Solicitation division in the United Charities' drive for funds, beginning Nov. 9. The Southwest Region will have 275 volunteer workers to visit homes and firms in that section of St. Louis.

JAMES ROOSEVELT ASSERTS FR. COUGHLIN IS SINCERE

Says in Radio Broadcast That Vote for Priest Is Merely Help for Landon.

By the Associated Press.

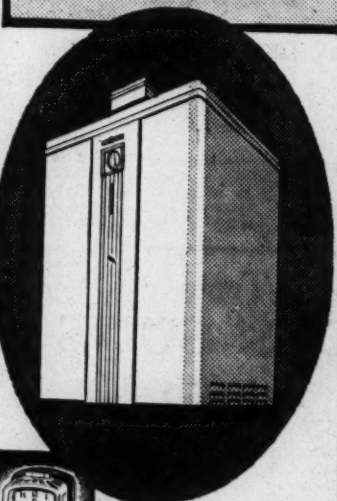

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, said in a radio broadcast yesterday the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin was "absolutely sincere" in his opposition to the New Deal.

"As a citizen of this nation he is entitled to his opinion," Roosevelt said. "He also has the right to voice that opinion."

"However, it would seem obvious that there are only two men who have a real chance of being elected President in November. The first is the Republican candidate, Alfred Landon; and the other, the Democratic candidate, my father."

"Therefore, a vote which ordinarily would go to the Democratic candidate and is given to a third party candidate is directly a vote to further the election chance of the Republican candidate."

Enter! Park Lane Suits at $35

for men who appreciate the finer touches of tailoring

This would be a grand chance to cut loose with a flood of superlatives—and with ample reason. But Park Lane Suits will never be sold that way! The very evident character of these brisk newcomers needs no high pressure talk or price comparison. You'll find the simple story of their quality far more impressive! Park Lane Suits are the exclusive product of a new custom-model shop in our Rochester plant. Here we have gathered a small group of highly trained specialists—tailors with years of training in the art of creating distinguished fashions. In their skilled hands, we have placed the finest fabrics our money can buy—with orders to forget mass production, and to concentrate on the finer touches of style and tailoring. We have shot high to combine vigorous, long-wearing woollens with shape retaining quality. And when you see these suits, we think you'll agree that we've hit the bull's eye. Perhaps our price seems low, for suits of this type. But we've a sneaking idea that you won't object to saving what we save because "we make the clothes we sell". So if you prize that "made-for-me-look"—and want to enjoy this luxury without paying a fortune—let us introduce you to Park Lane Suits, today or tomorrow!

$6,000,000 PROFIT TO GROUP SELLING STOCKS TO TRUST

Arthur W. Cutten and Harry F. Sinclair Among 15 in Deal With Investment Corporation.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Testimony that a group of 15 firms and individuals, including Arthur W. Cutten and Harry F. Sinclair, made a net profit of $6,243,388 on stock sales to an investment trust was heard by the Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday.

Hunter S. Marston of New York, who gave this testimony, said Blair & Co., investment bank which sponsored the trust, headed the group. Cutten, Chicago grain operator who died recently, Sinclair, the oil magnate, and Blair & Co. were listed as having had a 21.75 per cent interest each, with the Chase Securities Corporation holding a 14.50 per cent interest and the others smaller shares.

Marston said the group put up $13,000,000 to buy the stocks, which it sold two months later to the trust, the Petroleum Corporation of America. John D. Rockefeller Jr. lent it an additional $25,000,000 necessary to finance the transaction, he testified.

Both Marston and Elisha Walker, former president of Blair & Co. and now a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., said in response to questions by commission counsel that the trust paid gross commissions of $9,750,000 on stock transactions to Blair & Co. and affiliates from the time it was established in 1929 through Dec. 31, 1935.

The Petroleum Corporation of America, Marston said, sold to the public an initial offering of $110,500,000 of stock, which he described as the largest first offering in the investment trust field. Its assets now are $35,000,000, he said, due partly to repurchases of its own capital stock.

Securities Deal In

The securities which the group of 15 was said to have sold the trust were listed as 247,796 shares of Prairie Oil and Gas common and 115,650 shares of Prairie Pipe Line common.

Bancamerica - Blair, the firm which resulted from a merger of Blair & Co. with the Bank of America, received $700,000 in connection with a merger of Prairie Pipe Line and Prairie Oil and Gas with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co. to form the Consolidated Oil Co., Walker testified. In this merger the Petroleum Trust voted its stock in the Prairie companies, he said.

Marston formerly was a partner in Blair & Co. and also a director of the Petroleum Trust. He and Walker were questioned by David Schenker, commission counsel, in the commission's investigation to determine if regulation of investment trusts is needed.

PICKPOCKET IN LONDON CROWD SENTENCED TO 5 TO 10 YEARS

Defense Contends Presence of G. O. P. Presidential Nominee Magnified the Case.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Sept. 29.—Thomas Delmonti of Pittsburgh, convicted of picking pockets in crowds gathered to welcome Gov. Alf. M. Landon at Conneautville, must serve from five to 10 years in the Western Penitentiary.

Judge O. Clare Kent imposed the sentence, ordering Delmonti imprisoned for from two and one-half to five years on each of two counts. He directed that the second sentence should begin only on expiration of the first. Arden D. Mook, counsel for Delmonti, asked for leniency on grounds the presence of the Republican presidential nominee magnified the case. Judge Kent, in imposing the sentence, declared: "I want to say the pickpocketing is a most unhealthy business in Crawford County."

SIX NEW PWA JOBS IN STATE; FIVE OF THEM IN ST. LOUIS

Construction Began Last Week; 5833 Workers Being Employed on 113 Improvements.

Work was begun last week on six new construction contracts of the Public Works Administration in Missouri, Harry J. McNeerney, acting State PWA director, announced today. He said 113 improvements were being completed with a total of 5833 workers employed.

Additional work on the Soldiers' Memorial, the Civil Courts Building, city hospitals, City Hall and the Southern-Arsenal sewer, all in St. Louis, is provided in the new contracts.

FORGET-ME-NOT CAMPAIGN

Flowers to Be Sold Friday and Saturday for Veterans.

The Disabled American Veterans of the World War will hold their annual forget-me-not drive Friday and Saturday, with several hundred women selling artificial flowers at downtown intersections and in large buildings.

William E. Leach and Mrs. Al Schatz are joint chairmen of the campaign. The proceeds will be used for rehabilitation work for disabled veterans. A tea for the workers will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the D. A. V. Club, 3737 West Pine boulevard.

U. S. AGENTS SEIZE 1000 IN NARCOTIC AND LIQUOR RAIDS

Treasury Agents Also Confiscate Several Hundred Stills in Widely Scattered Cities.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Nearly 1000 persons were arrested and several hundred illicit stills were seized yesterday and last night by Treasury agents in raids against narcotic and liquor law violators in widely scattered cities.

A force of 2500 officers took part in the raids. The Narcotics Bureau and the Treasury's alcohol tax unit headed the campaign, a periodic clean-up effort. The Coast Guard, Customs Bureau and other Treasury enforcement agencies co-operated.

Preliminary reports showed that more than 400 persons had been taken into custody on narcotic charges. Most of these were arrested for alleged peddling of narcotics, officials said.

One Hundred Automobiles Seized.

Reports from the Alcohol Tax Unit showed that its agents had arrested several hundred persons, together with more than 100 automobiles alleged to have been used in illicit liquor operations.

The fight against illegal distillers was aided by earlier scouting work done by the Coast Guard's amphibious airplanes, which served as "spotters" for the Treasury agents. Three parole violators were numbered among those taken in the raids, officials said, two being arrested in Texas and one at Toledo, O. Texas led the list of states in total arrests, with 148.

Quantities of narcotics were seized in various cities. At San Antonio, Tex., agents found a store of marijuana.

Raids in San Francisco.

In the San Francisco Bay area, Federal and State agents arrested 20 persons, besides seizing liquor and narcotics. Customs agents seized 1200 pills said to contain narcotics, aboard a ship which had arrived from the Orient.

At Miami, Fla., two physicians were charged with failure to keep a record of narcotics they dispensed.

In Richmond, Va., 26 persons were arrested on narcotics charges. Predicting the arrest of 200 narcotic addicts there, B. M. Martin, Southeastern Narcotics Supervisor, said:

"The ease with which dope is purchased in Richmond has caused a great influx of addicts, whose petty thievery costs merchants at least $50,000 annually."

No special drive has been made in St. Louis, narcotic inspectors and alcohol tax unit agents here not recording an arrest in the past three days. Numerous persons are under indictment because of their regular activities. Detectives arrested two men last night for violations of the narcotic laws and turned them over to Federal officers today.

5000 DEER HUNTERS' TAGS TO BE DISTRIBUTED IN STATE

Season Oct. 23-24, with One Four-Point Buck the Limit; Does and Young Protected.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 29.—The Game and Fish Department is preparing 5000 tags—for deer hunters—for distribution in the State.

The special tag is required in addition to the regular hunting license. The cost is $1.50 to residents and $5.00 to non-residents for the three-day season, Oct. 22, 23 and 24.

Last year 103 deer were killed legally in about 20 counties, with Gasconade, Taney, Dent, Franklin, Carter and Ste. Genevieve in the lead. Only bucks, having at least four points on one antler, may legally be shot. Killing a doe or young buck is a felony which makes the hunter liable to a severe fine or imprisonment.

One four-point tag is the limit. The kill must be reported within three days to the Game and Fish Department on the tag furnished for that purpose.

Guns propelling one all-lead alloy or soft-nosed or expanding bullet may be used. It is illegal to use a dog in hunting deer.

Josephine Haywood, Actress, Dies. NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Josephine Robinson Haywood, retired actress who played in stock companies throughout the East for many years, died here Sunday. She was 71 years old.

SUIT TO VOID GIRL'S MARRIAGE

Margaret Onimus, 15, Eloped to Waterloo, Ill., Last December. Suit to annul the marriage of Margaret Onimus, 15-year-old Normandy High School student, and David Russell Jr., 19, 7228 Page avenue, was filed at Clayton yesterday by the girl's mother, Mrs. Margaret H. Puschel, 2317 Klenlen avenue, Pine Lawn.

The petition alleged they were married last Dec. 15 by a Justice of the Peace in Waterloo, Ill., without the knowledge of the girl's mother. It further stated the bride gave her age as 18 and that after the marriage the pair never lived together. Russell's father is a member of the State Legislature.

MAN KILLED, WIFE HURT '10,000 FIND' TURNS OUT TO BE WORTHLESS

Charles L. Moorman, 65, Clayton, Lost Control of Machine Near St. Clair.

Funeral services for Charles L. Moorman, 621 Westwood drive, Clayton, chief engineer for the Consolidated Coal Co., who was killed Sunday night in an automobile accident near St. Clair, Mo., will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Robert J. Ambruster mortuary, 6633 Clayton road, Clayton.

His wife, Mrs. Pearl C. Moorman, suffered several fractured ribs when their car left the road and struck a pole. She is in Des Moines Hospital, where she was taken yesterday after treatment at a Washington (Mo.) hospital. Her condition was said to be "fairly good" today.

Mr. Moorman, who was 65 years old, suffered a fractured skull. His wife said the lights of an approaching car blinded him and the automobile went on the shoulder of the road. He lost control when he attempted to steer it back to the pavement.

They were returning to St. Louis from Carthage, where they had visited Mrs. Moorman's parents over the weekend. Surviving Mr. Moorman, in addition to his wife, are a daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Ruth M. Hayden, and a sister, Mrs. Paul Hardaway of Brandenburg, Ky.

Steel Worker Learns Gold Certificate Lost in Fire Has Been Canceled.

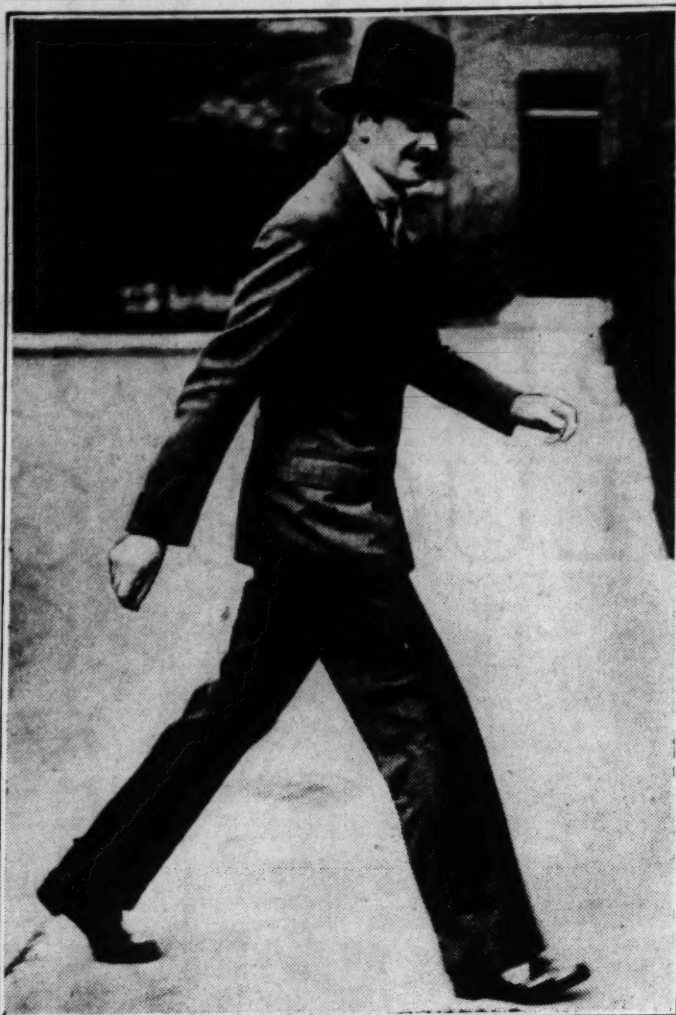

Orville R. Brooks, Granite City steel worker, was surprised Saturday, expectant Sunday and disappointed Monday.

Saturday, walking in an alley near his home at 2222 State street, he picked up a fluttering bit of paper. The engraving on one side identified it as a United States gold certificate for $10,000. The other side, however, was blank. Peter Schermer, neighborhood grocer who was consulted by Brooks, advised him to take it to the Federal Reserve Bank.

With the bank closed Sunday, Brooks could only hope. Yesterday he went to the bank. Raymond A. Horton, in charge of the local Secret Service Bureau of the Treasury Department, was notified. Horton, examining the serial number, found the certificate was one of a number which had been scattered in the streets during a fire at the Washington (D. C.) Post-office about 10 years ago. He explained that it had been canceled when reported missing. Another such certificate, he added, had been recovered at Memphis while he was stationed there before being assigned to St. Louis.

CAROLINA SHERIFF ARRESTS LABOR BOARD CONCILIATOR

Says George Kamenow "Tried to Take Charge of My Office," Union Organizer Also Jailed.

UNION, S. C., Sept. 29.—George Kamenow, who was sent here on a mediation mission by the Textile Labor Relations Board at Washington, and Gordon L. Chastain of Spartanburg, an organizer for the United Textile Workers, were arrested yesterday by Sheriff J. C. Faucett, on charges of disorderly conduct. They were placed in jail, but Kamenow later was released on bond.

Faucett said the Federal conciliator "came into my office disorderly and trying to run it. He tried to take charge and I had to jail him."

The organizer was accused by the Sheriff of "almost causing a riot" by making speeches at the Monarch cotton mill where union workers are on strike.

PIE SALESMAN INJURED INTERNALLY BY AUTOMOBILE

Michael Zarwitz Said to Have Run Into Side of Machine.

Michael Zarwitz, a pie salesman, 2039 Alfred avenue, suffered head and internal injuries in an accident at Eighteenth street and Clark avenue at 8 a. m. today. He was taken to City Hospital.

The driver of the car, Robert Smith, 3241 Missouri avenue, said to police that, as he made a right turn into Clark avenue from Eighteenth, Zarwitz ran into the side of the automobile.

MAN HIT, INJURED BY AUTO

Robert Holliday, 75, Struck Crossing Market at Eighteenth.

Robert Holliday, 75 years old, maintenance man for the Terminal Railroad, suffered a fractured left leg and chest injuries last night when struck in crossing Market street at Eighteenth street by an automobile driven west by Miss Alice Throop, daughter of Chancellor George R. Throop of Washington University.

Holliday crossed the street against the red signal, witnesses said. Miss Throop was accompanied by her mother. At Missouri Pacific Hospital Holliday's condition was said to be serious.

49,967-Foot Mark Set by Royal Air Force Pilot.

FARNBOROUGH, England, Sept. 29.—The Royal Air Force announced today Squadron Leader F. R. D. Swain had established a world altitude record of 49,967 feet.

The announcement said Swain flew an experimental plane at Bristol yesterday, exceeding a record of 48,698 feet set last month by M. J. Petre of France. Swain's ship was powered with a special Pegasus motor. Swain wore a sealed suit blown up to maintain ordinary air pressure in the stratosphere.

A. F. GERRITZEN DENIES SOLICITING LAW SUITS

Attorney Seeking Fees From Lead Company Says Firm Was Recommended.

Al F. Gerritzen, attorney, who with his brother, Leo W. Gerritzen, is suing the National Lead Co. for fees of $330 in two occupational disease cases, testified yesterday in Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams' Court that the cases were brought into his office unsolicited by his firm.

Testimony in previous deposition hearings indicated that the company would resist the claims of the two attorneys for fees on the basis that there was no merit to the suits when they were filed. The company settled the suits, filed by Paul R. Davis and John Staples, two former employees, who alleged they were afflicted with silicosis.

Al Gerritzen testified that another lawyer had recommended his firm to file the suits, one of the clients having said that he did not want to employ any attorney in the lead belt, because he believed they "were all connected with the lead company."

Paid Filing Fees. His firm paid the filing fees in the Davis and Staples cases, Gerritzen testified, but denied he had guaranteed payment of medical bills or other costs. He said his firm was counsel in six occupational disease damage suits against the National Lead Co.

The suit of the two lawyers for fees alleges that the company settled the two damage suits with Staples and Davis, but without consulting the Gerritzen firm, which had a contract with the plaintiffs for 50 per cent of the amount recovered. The suits were originally filed in the Circuit Court, but were removed to the Federal Court on petition of the company.

George T. Priest, attorney for the company, sought to establish that the Gerritzen brothers stirred up litigation among former employees of the company, after it closed its mines in St. Francois County. This charge was denied in testimony by Al Gerritzen.

Al Gerritzen testified that he studied law at St. Louis University, was licensed to practice in the State courts in 1921, but never was formally enrolled in the Federal Court.

Edward Hupert is attorney for the Gerritzen firm in the trial, which began yesterday.

$75,000,000 SASKATCHEWAN DROUTH AREA DEBT CANCELED

Provincial Government Agrees to Write-Off Taxes and Relief Obligations of 158 Municipalities.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press)—Cancellation of $75,000,000 in taxes, relief and interest debts of 158 drouth area municipalities has been agreed on by the Saskatchewan Government. Marginal districts of 18 other rural municipalities also will benefit by the step.

Under the new agreement, there will be a reduction in interest on all farm mortgages to 6 per cent from January, 1937, an annual saving to Saskatchewan farmers of about $4,000,000.

All unpaid interest accumulated in the drouth areas on mortgages up to January, 1935, will be canceled and interest owing for 1935 effective Jan. 1, 1937, with the principal to be paid over a period of 10 years.

SENATOR HOLT HASN'T DECLARED FOR LONDON

Corrects Statement by Knox That He Is Supporting Republican Nominee.

WESTON, W. Va., Sept. 29.—Rush D. Holt, West Virginia's junior Democratic Senator, said last night he had not declared himself a supporter of Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican Presidential nominee. Holt, who had luncheon with Gov. Landon in Topeka three weeks ago, referred to a statement made Saturday in Chicago by Col. Frank Knox, Republican candidate for Vice-President. Knox said, referring to West Virginia: "The open support of Gov. Landon by Senator Rush Holt hurts the Democrats."

Holt said: "I have neither publicly nor privately expressed my support for Gov. Landon."

Republican Member Disap-

Stand and Nominee's Plea to Scrap Act.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—John G. Winant, Republican, former Governor of New Hampshire, resigned
last night as member and chairman of the Social Security Board in order to answer Gov. Alf M. Landon's criticism of the Social Security Act.

In a letter to the President, Win-nant said he thought Landon was wrong and since he did not "feel that members of independent commissions or boards, such as the Social Security Board, should take an active part in politics," he was resigning his post so as to make himself free, as a private citizen,
to answer Landon's attack.

Winant's letter, sent to the White House, was relayed by telegraph to Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Winant will make his reply tonight (St. Louis time). On the program with him will be Miss Grace Abbott of the University of Chicago, head of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor in the Hoover administration.

Text of Winant's Letter.

Following is the text of Winant's
letter to the President:

"On Aug. 14, 1935, the Social Security Act became law. The administration of its major provisions was entrusted to a board of three members. Under the law not more than two members of the board
could be members of the same political party." You named me to the board and as a Republican and as the minority member my appointment was confirmed by the Senate on Aug. 23, 1935, together with the other two members, without objection.

"It was clearly the intention of Congress to create a non-partisan board, with personnel protected under civil service, and to insure non-partisan administration of the act.
It has been so administered.

"The act itself was viewed as a non-partisan, humanitarian measure. Three times as many Republicans in Congress voted for the Social Security Act as voted against
it.

"Having seen the tragedy of war,
I have been consistently interested in the ways of peace. Having seen some of the cruelties of the depression, I have wanted to help with others in lessening the hardships,
the suffering and the humiliations forced upon American citizens because of our previous failure as a nation to provide effective social machinery for meeting the problems of dependency and unemployment. The Social Security Act is America's answer to this great human need.

G. O. P. Stand "Disappointing."

"The references to the problems of social security in the platform
of the Republican party were disappointing. It was my hope that the position of the Republican presidential nominee might be less so.

"Today we know that both the Republican platform and the Republican candidate have definitely rejected the constructive provisions of the Social Security Act, only to fall back upon the dependency dole
—a dole with a means test, which
in my state includes the pauper's oath and disenfranchisement.

"The statements that provisions of this act are 'a fraud on the working man' and 'a cruel hoax' I believe are untrue. They are charges with regard to a measure which had the support of 372 members of the House of Representatives, as against 33 opposed—which met with the approval of 77 members of the United States Senate with only 6 against—which was upheld by the votes of Senator Hiram Johnson, Senator LaFollette, Senator Costigan, Senator Wagner and Representative David J. Lewis—a measure which was advocated by such advisers to the Committee on Economic Security as President
Green of the American Federation of Labor, President Frank P.
Graham of the University of North Carolina; Miss Grace Abbott, former chief of the Children's Bureau; and Mr. John A. Ryan of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Landon's Milwaukee Speech.

"I have never assumed that the Social Security Act was without fault. I had assumed and even hoped that time and experience
might dictate many and important changes. As you stated when you signed the act on Aug. 14, 1935: 'This law represents a cornerstone in a structure which is being built, but is by no means complete.'"

But Gov. Landon's address at Milwaukee on the Social Security Act was not a plea for the improvement of the act; it was a plea to scrap the act.

"I am interested in the Social Security program not from a partisan viewpoint. I am interested in it as a humanitarian measure. Gov.
Landon has made the problem of social security a major issue in this campaign and I cannot support him. I do not feel that members of independent commissions or boards, such as the Social Security Board, should take an active part in politics and moreover, I was appointed and confirmed as the minority member. While I retain this position I am not free to defend the act. Therefore, I am tendering you my resignation as a member of the Social Security Board.

"No work I have ever undertaken

Decrease Increase to 300,- 000 in Spade Corps, Labor Service Preliminary to Actual Army Drill.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—Conscription to increase the German fighting forces to 800,000 men began today
under the new two-year compulsory service decree.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler decreed yesterday an increase to 300,000 for the Spade Corps, the Government labor service, which is the preliminary training unit for youths.
About 30,000 of the first draft will be inducted into the service Oct. 1.
At the same time between 200,000
and 300,000 of slightly older Germans will be taken into the Reichs-wehr, or National Army, reorganized on the pre-war model.

Hitler decreed the two-year service Aug. 24, effective Oct. 1. The training period previously was one year, in addition to half a year in the Spade Corps which must be put in prior to being called into the fighting forces. The recruits are 21 and 22 years old, parts of the classes of 1914 and 1915. They will be distributed among the land, air
and sea forces, making an increase of one-fourth to one-third in armed strength.

Hitler's labor service decree
raised the personnel of the Spade Corps from 200,000 to 230,000 until 1938, when it will be increased to 275,000 and in 1939 to 300,000.

In line with this program, the number of girls in voluntary labor service will be increased from 12-000 to 25,000 on April 1, 1937.

The class of 1914—598,000 strong
—was the first to be called a year ago to service in the Reichswehr.
Because it was larger than any of the five next war year classes,
however, only a part of it was called. The leftovers of 1914 have been joined with part of the class of 1915 to form the Oct. 1 conscription. The class of 1915 numbers 467,000.

In East Prussia the compulsory service period begins with the class of 1910 instead of 1914.

3 CHARGED WITH MURDER IN ST. CLAIR INDICTMENTS

17 Others Accused of Criminal Assault; 11 Plead Guilty, Seven Are Sentenced.

Three persons were charged with murder and 17 others were charged with criminal assault in indictments returned by the St. Clair County grand jury yesterday in its final report to Circuit Judge Alfred D. Rieck at Belleville.

James Hayes, a WPA worker, and Robert Young, both of East St. Louis, were charged with the murder of Virgil Hoffman, a former convict, last Aug. 25, in a dispute over the ownership of an automobile. Elsa Williams, Negro, National City, was indicted for the murder of Mrs. May Ola Mathis, also a Negro, on Aug. 5.

Twenty-eight indictments for criminal assault were returned. Seven Negro men who were indicted on the statutory offense, and a Negro woman charged with being their accessory, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Rieck today and each was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment. The offenses which they admitted were against two white Belleville girls, 14 and 15 years old.

Those sentenced were Richard and Mace Grey, brothers; James Miles, Lewis Nance, Everett Randle, John Freeman, Bill Bevenau and Sadie Freeman, all of Belleville. Two other Negroes who were charged similarly, Clarence Baker and Gilbert Lyne, pleaded not guilty.

Four other men who were indicted on charges of criminal assault also pleaded guilty when arraigned today, sentence being deferred until tomorrow. They were Ben Bitters, John Fuhs, George Gantner and Joseph Gantner. Miss Sarah Beasley, an associate of the four men, also was indicted as an accessory to a criminal assault. Griff Falley and James Carl Phelps, both of East St. Louis, were charged in indictments with assault and robbery.

An indictment charging manslaughter was returned against Sgt. Joseph Bishop of the Army Air Corps at Scott Field in the death last May 24 of Miss Eileen Deutschman of Belleville. His automobile struck the girl as she was riding a bicycle.

UNION ANNOUNCES STRIKE AT MUTUAL GARMENT CO.

Police Say 40 of 150 Employees Are Out; Woman Arrested as Disturber.

About 40 of 150 employees of the Mutual Garment Co., 1727 Locust street, went on strike this morning by order of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, according to police, who were called about 8 o'clock to quell a disturbance.

Mrs. Helen Rother, 4002 North Twenty-first street, was arrested and charged with peace disturbance because of her conduct toward Abraham Wittoft, vice-president, who addressed a group.

A circular of the union set forth that the strike was called to obtain union recognition, higher wages, reduced hours and improved working conditions. Officers of the company denied there was a strike. A spokesman for the union said six employees had been discharged because of union activities.

FLASHY CLOTHES LEAD TO CAPTURE OF ROBBER

Police See Him in Red Sweater and Yellow Polo Shirt Noted by Victim.

A brilliant red sweater and yellow polo shirt worn by an armed young holdup man proved the undoing early today of the youth and his companion, who were under arrest within an hour after they had held up a lunchroom at 624 Walton avenue, bound the attendant and fled with $33.

They held up the attendant, George Close, 4214A Chouteau avenue, at 4:20 a. m., tied his hands and feet with cord and were seen by a passerby to run east in an alley between Washington and Delmar boulevards after the holdup.

Close's description of the robbers, including the fact that one of them wore a yellow shirt and a red sweater with the figure of a felt sombrero stitched to its back, was broadcast on the radio. A half-hour later Sgt. Reynolds Ferguson and Patrolman Louis Rolf in a scout car saw the youth with the sweater going into a restaurant in the 3900 block of Delmar boulevard and arrested him.

He identified himself as Donald Duncan, 19, an unemployed cook, who had come to St. Louis eight weeks ago from Kansas City. Admitting the holdup, he named as his companion Woodrow Timlick, 17, a resident of his rooming house in the 3900 block of Delmar. Timlick, arrested within the hour at the rooming house, had in his possession $33 which he admitted had been taken from the restaurant.

The youths said that Duncan had thrown his unloaded revolver into an asphalt north of the 4500 block of Washington boulevard after the robbery, and the weapon was found there. Both youths were identified by Close.

They were quoted as admitting that last evening they snatched a purse containing $2 from a woman on Euclid avenue. The purse, as police had learned from an earlier report, had been taken from Mrs. Genevieve Lisle, 2 North Euclid avenue.

Later this morning both youths admitted that they and a third man held up Miss Ann Anderson in a restaurant at 622 North Taylor avenue, where she is employed, and robbed the till of $30 on Sept. 21. Miss Anderson identified both of them before they made their admissions.

INDICTED FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Laborer Alleged to Have Beaten Victim Fatally.

Peter Riskevick, also known as Peter Reis, 48-year-old laborer, was charged with manslaughter in an indictment voted yesterday by the grand jury in the fatal beating last July 4 of Mrs. Helen Novokai, with whom he lived at 1428 (rear) North Ninth street.

Neighbors of the pair testified at the inquest that Riskevick beat her because she did not give him $150 of her wages, which she had earned at a factory where she worked. She was treated at City Hospital and died a day after having been beaten from internal injuries and peritonitis, an autopsy showed.

Completes Its Ninth East-West Crossing in 63 Hours.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 29.—The German Zeppelin Hindenburg completed its ninth east to west crossing of the North Atlantic, dropped mooring lines at the naval air station here at 5:54 a. m. and was moored 12 minutes later.

The airship made the voyage from Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, in 63 hours and 12 minutes. Forty-four passengers, including three United States navy officers, were aboard.

TWO OF CREW KILLED WHEN TRAIN IS DERAILED

Reported to Have Run Into Open Switch Near Winnfield, La.; Strike on Road.

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 29.—Two trainmen were killed and the engineer and fireman were slightly injured when a Louisiana & Arkansas passenger train was derailed at Moore's Station, eight miles south of Winnfield, about midnight.

J. T. Dempsey and H. H. Vaught were killed. No passengers were injured. Persons at the scene reported that the train ran into an open switch.

Transportation workers on the railroad have been on strike since Sept. 19, and minor disorders have occurred at Minden, La.

RIGHT IN STYLE AND RIGHT FOR THE EYES

WHY

you should light your home
with I. E. S. Better-Sight Lamps

They give the light that Science has discovered to be proper for the conservation of eyesight. The light is diffused for correct illumination and the elimination of harsh glare and shadows. Room-wide light that is soft and pleasant and a protection against eyestrain.

Now that the relationship of light and sight is understood, we cannot over-emphasize the importance of providing your home with the right lighting conditions. The price of right light is nothing as compared to the value of good sight.

It embodies all of the scientifically-correct features which I. E. S. Better-Sight Lamps MUST have. This is further indicated by the I. E. S. tag of approval. The base has the refinement of style and finish found in the better quality lamps... and may be had in bronze or ivory-and-gold finish. It not only has the 1-2-3 lighting switch, but also the new style 1-2-3 candle cluster of three lights with reflectors. The shade is of finely pleated silk with silk lining and braid trimming. And all other features, such as heavy tubing and triple plating, show quality far above that usually obtainable at $14.95. Its unusual value will be recognized the moment you see it.

May Be Charged on Your Electric Bill

Small Carrying Charge for Convenient Monthly Payments.

The 1-2-3 Switch

gives adjustable or flexible lighting.

First turn puts light on to full intensity, second turn reduces it one-third and the third turn reduces it another third. The same with the candles: The first turn lights all three, the next turns out one and the third turns out another.

TO BE SURE

your home lighting is not causing eyestrain, let us
check it with a

Why Sahara Coal Ranks High In Heating Power

NATURE is responsible for the high heating power of Sahara Coal, for Nature alone put that kind of quality into the coal seam where Sahara is mined.

Government figures prove it. Comparative analyses of the various Illinois mining districts, published by the Illinois State Geological Survey, gives coal from the district where Sahara is mined the highest heat-value
rating of any producing district in that state.

When you buy coal, you buy heat. Since Sahara costs no more than other Grade A Illinois Coals, it gives you more heat for your money... greater economy... greater satisfaction. Heat with Sahara and enjoy the economy that comes only from using the highest quality Illinois coal.

GUILD MEMBERS

Testifies He Instructed Ed-

Intimidation of Employees.
By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 29.—The National Labor Relations Board hearing of charges the Seattle Post-Intelligencer discharged two employees for activities in the American Newspaper Guild is expected to end today.

Attorneys for the strike-bound newspaper and for the Labor Board indicated they would not make arguments, but would let the case
rest with testimony of rebuttal witnesses for the board.

Charles B. Lindeman, associate publisher of the Hearst-owned newspaper, testified yesterday that the Guild connection of Frank M.
Lynch, news photographer, and of Philip Everhardt Armstrong, drama critic, had nothing to do with their dismissals and that executives had been instructed to avoid intimidation of Guild members.

The discharge of Lynch and Armstrong precipitated the newsroom walkout, called by the Seattle chapter of the Guild, Aug. 13,
and caused the paper's indefinite suspension. Subsequently, the Guild cited the Post-Intelligencer before the Labor Board on charges of violating the National Labor Relations Act.

"I had told Mr. Colvin (Ray Colvin, day managing editor) that under no circumstances could Guild members be intimidated and that no statements could be made that could be interpreted as such," Lindeman said.

Non-Strikers on Stand.
Two witnesses, Paul Stoffel Jr., relief editor, and E. P. Chalcraft, Federal Building reporter, neither on strike, told of conversations with Guild leaders intended to show the strike was called because it was feared the Labor Relations Act
would be declared unconstitutional
before the board could hear the complaints of the Guild.

Chalcraft said Forrest Williams
and Walter Rue, Guild leaders, called on him at the Police Station
the night before the strike and urged him to join. He said he refused and warned them he would attempt to pass the picket line.

"I asked Forrest why they did not wait for the Labor Board in hope of remedies," Chalcraft testified.

"Forrest said that takes too long.
Take the Morris Watson case for instance. We're afraid, too, the Labor Relations Act may be declared unconstitutional."

Morris Watson was an employee of the New York office of the Associated Press who was discharged.
The authority of the Federal board to order his reinstatement is pending in the Supreme Court.

Political Pressure Expected.
Stoffel testified Raymond McConnell, striking copy reader, interviewed him about joining but Stof-fel told him he was against strikes and thought the Guild "synonymous with the Communist party."

McConnell assured him "we've got a lot of support," Stoffel testified.
"He told me the men would be taken care of and that, in addition,
the matter was going to embarrass
the Landon political campaign."

Stoffel quoted McConnell as saying "if we pull a strike on a Hearst paper, there'll be pressure on the management by the Republican party to settle it."

"I asked him if they hadn't filed a complaint with the Regional Labor Relations Board," Stoffel testified. "He said, Yes, but that's too slow and, anyhow, we think the act is unconstitutional. There have been several adverse decisions."

STARK SAYS GOV. LANDON STRADDLES FARM PROBLEM

Asserts Republican Nominee Offers Weak Substitute for Roosevelt Program.
By the Associated Press.
TRENTON, Mo., Sept. 29.—Lloyd
C. Stark, Democratic nominee for Governor, charged Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the Republican presidential nominee, with "straddling
the farm problem" at a political ra-ly here today.

Stark referred to Landon as "offering a weak substitute for the Roosevelt agricultural policy to the farmers of the West, while seeking to convince financial interests of the East he is for a return to the Hoover plan of dealing with farmers."

Destruction of the farmer's foreign market was charged to the Hoover administration by Stark,
who assailed the Hoover-Grundy tariff act as "instead of helping the farmer destroyed the foreign trade of the United States and brought on the greatest depression this country has ever known."

Stark declared each voter would represent his own interests at the November polls.

"If better off now than in 1932,"
he concluded, "he will vote for Roosevelt and Garner, Stark and the Democratic State ticket. This will insure a sweeping Democratic victory on Nov. 2."

The Irresistible Attack and the Impregnable Defense

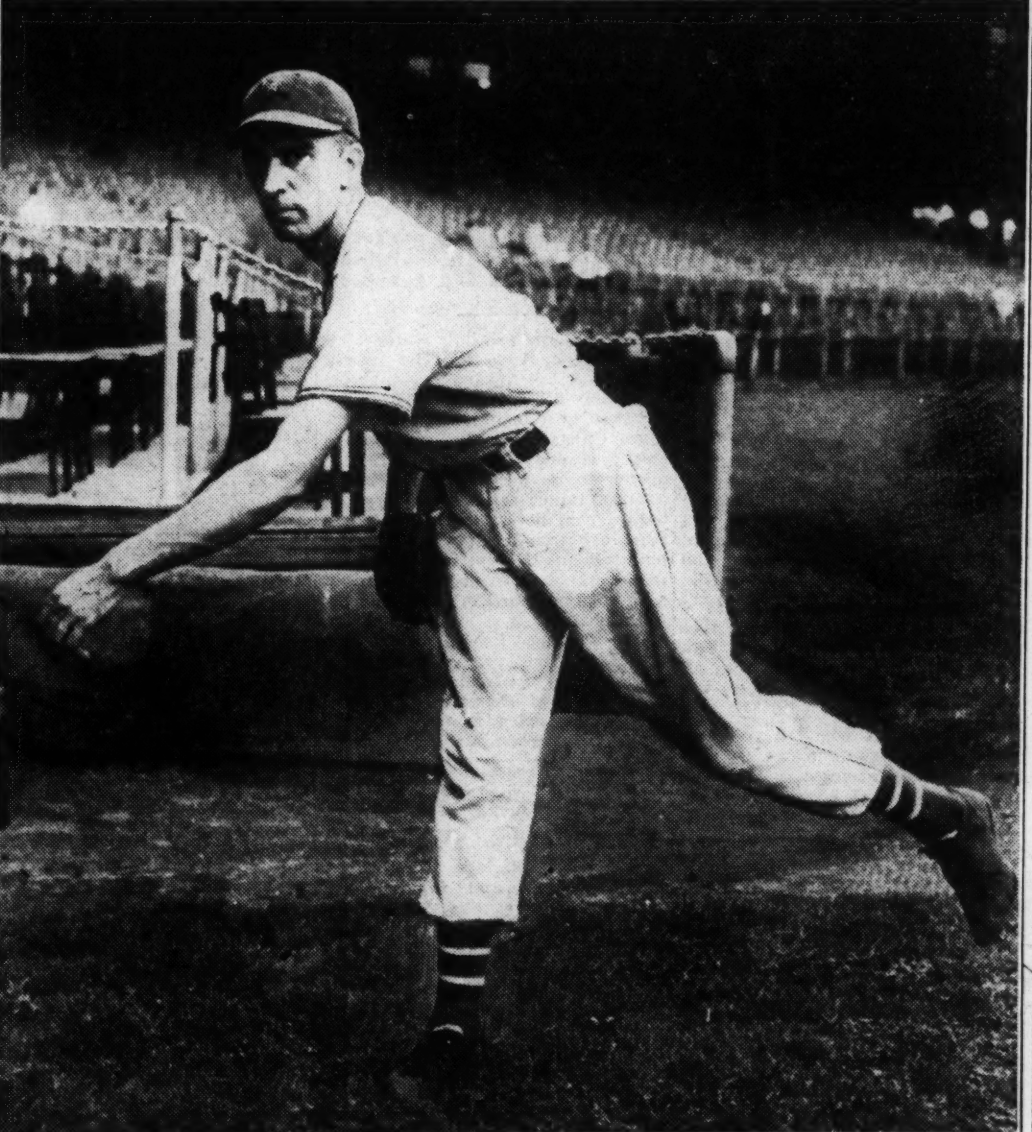

Slugging and more slugging won the 1936 American League pennant for the New York Yankees. Many fans believe the Murderers' Row of this year to be the greatest aggregation of hitters ever assembled on the Ruppert Rifles, despite the absence of Babe Ruth. Pictured above are the men whose attack enabled Joe McCarthy to finish 19 1/2 games ahead of the field. Left to right, they are: Joe DiMaggio, Frank Crosetti, Tony Lazzeri, Bill Dickey, Lou Gehrig, Jake Powell and George Selkirk. American League partisans expect them to beat Carl Hubbell in the series opener.

Frisch Picks Yanks To Win World Series In Five or Six Games

By W. J. McGoogan.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Yankees to win the series in five or six games is the pick of Manager Frank Frisch of the Cardinals.
Discussing the possibilities on the trip from St. Louis, Frisch said:
"It appears to me that the Yankees have just too much power for the Giants, and certainly the wish is not father to the thought, as I am a National League man and I would like to see our side win."
"Hubbell, I believe, is the best pitcher in baseball, and nobody can beat him when he's right. So I think the Giants will win the first game. After that, though, I am afraid Manager Bill Terry may think it necessary to bring Hubbell back too soon, possibly in the third game, and he won't be at his best then."
"The situation, so far as the Giants are concerned, is not hopeless. They have a great defensive team. With Terry on first base, Whitehead at second, Bartell at short and Jackson on third, I think they have the edge defensively over the Yankees."
Not Great Hitting Club.
"I do not believe, however, that the Giants are a good hitting ball club. Mancuso is not a great hitter; Bartell and Whitehead only fair; Joe Moore is not powerful at the plate. That leaves you Terry Jackson, Ott and Leiber or Rippe to carry the burden of the attack."
"After the Giants have used Hubbell, where are they? Neither Fitzsimmons nor Schumacher appears

No team has been able to get past Carl Hubbell, who throws, the "butterfly" curve for the Giants so effectively, in his last 16 games. He will try to stop Murderers' Row in the first game of the series tomorrow.

CARDINAL PRINCE WINS REYNOLDS STAKE RACE

By the Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 29.—Cardinal Prince, pacing star of the Hotel Baker Stables, St. Charles, Ill., won the Reynolds Stake, feature of yesterday's Grand Circuit meeting in straight heats. He paced the first and third heats each in 1:39 1/4. He was driven by his trainer, S. F. Palin. Dominion Grattan and Jane Azoff were second and third.
Harry Stokes, former driving ace of the Grand Circuit, had a great afternoon, winning the Lafayette Hotel Stake, secondary feature on the card, in straight heats and also the 17 trot with Coffee, owned by Engle and Fallor of Canton, O. Calumet Eric, from the Arden Homestead Stable, Goshen, N. Y., was second best after his stablemate, Fez, was distanced.

RIGHT-HANDER SELECTED BY MANAGER M'CARTHY TO FACE SOUTHPAW HUBBELL

Terry Will Use Schumacher in Second Contest—Rain Is Forecast for Tomorrow—Giants Manager Declares That Cold Weather Makes His "Trick" Knee Ache.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, today nominated Charley (Red) Ruffing, burly right-hander, for pitching duty against the New York Giants in the opening game of the world series at the Polo Grounds tomorrow. Carl Hubbell, great southpaw, will pitch for the Giants.

Ending widespread speculation among baseball experts who figured the ploy of the American League champions might be inclined to gamble on his erratic left-hander, Vernon Gomez, in the first game, McCarthy's choice instead fell on the veteran red-head who was by far the most consistent of Yankee pitchers this year. Terry's announcement that Hubbell would start for the National League pennant-winners surprised no one. Hubbell, chalking up 26 victories during the season, wound up the regular season with a string of 16 successive victories. There did not appear to be any other possible choice.
Schumacher in Second.
Terry indicated that he would send young Hal Schumacher, a right-hander, against the Yankees in the second game and save Fred Fitzsimmons, a veteran, for the third game. McCarthy declined to hazard a guess on his pitching selections beyond the first game.
More depressing even than today's cold rain was the forecast of continued chilly weather and "probable rain" for tomorrow. The temperature today was in the 50s, more suitable for football than baseball.

It made Manager Bill Terry of the Giants particularly gloomy. As he emerged from a conference in a mid-town hotel with Commissioner K. M. Landis, Terry remarked: "This weather makes my trick knee ache."
Landis said no postponement would be considered until tomorrow. He will visit the Polo Grounds around noon, if conditions warrant, to examine the prospects at first-hand before reaching any decision. Game time is 1:30 p. m. (12:30 o'clock St. Louis time).
"All we can hope for is that things take a turn for the better," said the gray-haired Commissioner. "We will make every effort to reach a decision in time to give the fans adequate notice."
Landis conferred at length on the rules and regulations with Terry. McCarthy, President Ford Frick of the National League, President Will Harridge of the American League, and the four umpires assigned to the series.
The arbiters were told to conduct the games under the same rules and regulations that prevail for the regular pennant season. This was interpreted to mean Landis gave no instructions to "lean backward" in handling any player outbreaks or in dealing out discipline.
Harridge and Frick were in smiling mood.

CHARLIE RUFFING

Can Murderer's Row Beat Hubbell One of Series Leading Questions

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Can the New York Yankees hit Carl Hubbell's butterfly curve, a magic fluttering thing that confounded all National League batters while the brilliant left-hander won 16 straight victories and carried the Giants to the pennant?

Has Joe McCarthy the necessary pitching strength to offset the batting slump that usually overtakes the most powerful clubs when the battle is joined in a championship struggle?
What will the youthful Joe DiMaggio do—the prize recruit of the year, but a mournful, long-bearded goat in the all-star game?
After Hubbell has pitched, what is Bill Terry going to do about pitchers? Can Fred Fitzsimmons stop the Yankees? Has Hal Schumacher returned to form after a long stretch of inefficiency?
You'll have the answers soon, for the two champions of the major leagues—the Yankees of the American and the Giants of the National—will open their world title struggle at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

New "Gate" Record Likely.
The baseball clans have been gathering for several days in this largest city of the country and it is taken for granted that the Subway Series—you can get to either ball park for a nickel—will set a new record for attendance and for receipts. However that is another of the questions to be answered during the week.
There is no doubt about the interest being there. The baseball fans of New York showed their interest in the game when more than 64,000 persons attended a recent doubleheader between the Giants and Cardinals. But the big question is whether the rank and file of the tribe fan, has the large bills necessary to gain admission to the world series competition.
Fires for Series Games Jacked Up.
During the regular season you can see the Giants or the Yankees for 50 cents in the bleachers or $1.10 for a grandstand seat. For the world series, however, the prices are jacked up. General admission is $3 and if you want a reserved seat you must pay $5.50. Box seats, which range up to $1.75 during the season—higher in some cities—will cost $6.60. Furthermore a man can't save up $5.50 and take it to the box office window. Baseball sells its world series tickets in strips of three, one for each game originally scheduled at each park.
Thus, Beowulf Q. Phan has to have $16.50 to attract anybody's attention at the ticket department and if he wants to take Mrs. Beowulf, he has to put $33 on the line. Going further and spending more, if Beowulf wants to go and take the wife to all the six originally scheduled games, it will cost him $66 to make two reservations. And he has to look forward to the possibility that after six games, it may be all tied up and he may have to scratch gravel for 11 bucks more to sit in at the seventh and deciding game.
When the series is played in two cities, the promoters have the benefit of two excited communities, but

QUESTION

Carthy Admits
Is Good But Worried About It

McCarthy.

1936 American League Champions, have been reading advance dope on the Yankees' new pitcher, Dizzy Dean, who will open against the Giants in the first game of the series. It has been interesting reading, and the group of the series is this: Yankee fair enough. That's the way it analysis they probably play pretty much the same type of baseball. It isn't as if one breed of players went into one league and another breed into the other.

Now let me say something about my own ball club. It is one of the finest hitting outfits ever put together.

In 1932, the Athletics set an all-time record for home runs with 173. The experts figured that this might stand forever. The Yankees better that mark two weeks before the close of the season, with an eight-homer afternoon in St. Louis.

In all the history of baseball, no club ever was able to show more than four hitters who over a season's play had driven more than 100 runs each.

Along came the Yankees of 1936, and set a new record in that detail, too, with Lou Gehrig, Joe Di Maggio, Bill Dickey, Tony Lazzeri and George Selkirk composing the Big Five.

Calls Gehrig "Greatest."

Let me say that Gehrig will present no small problem to the Giant pitching. Gehrig is not only the greatest first baseman in the history of baseball, but the greatest ball player the game has developed. He has been in four world series, and they never have failed to bring out the best in him. For the four series, his batting average is a mere .422. He hit .348 against the Cardinals in 1926; .308 against the Pirates in 1927; .545 against the Cardinals in 1928, and .529 in the series with the Cubs in 1932. He hit four home runs against the Cardinals in 1928. He hit three against the Cubs in 1932. He is a big headache for any kind of pitching.

was in the bullpen quite a lot in 1934 and 1935 and I worked on that curve every chance I got. Now I think I've got a better curve than

I ever had. That's why I had a good year."

Hubbell, 33 now, was playing for the Cushing (Ok.) team in a class

"D" league in 1923 when the Giants

and Yanks met last in the world series.

"I'll say one thing for these years. They help your confidence.

I love to go out there before a crowd like we'll have in the opener and start getting ready to pitch.

I guess a good ballplayer's like a good race horse. In a race like the series you kinda outdo yourself."

I Hubbell said he did not think

he could pitch his best without three days' rest. He scolded the suggestions of some critics that he

go to the mound every other day against the Yankees.

"I might get away with it, but I don't doubt it," he said.

SCORERS ARE NAMED

FOR WORLD SERIES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Baseball

Commissioner Landis today anounced the selection of three official scorers for the world series.

They are Stuart Bell of the Cleve-

NEW WORLD RECORD FOR MILE EXPECTED IN PRINCETON RACE

CUNNINGHAM
AND LOVELOCK ARE 'HOPES' TO BETTER 4:06.7

San Romani, Lash and Dawson Complete Field
With Latter Ordered to Set Fast Pace.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 29.—

A new world record for one mile

is in the making if the plans of the Princeton athletic authorities

for next Saturday do not go astray.

Five great runners, headed by Jack

Lovelock, New Zealand's Olympic

1500-meter champion, and Glenn

Cunningham, record holder at the mile, will meet on the fast Palmer

Stadium track to make the effort.

Originally the field was to be limited to four—Lovelock, Cunningham,

ham, Archie San Romani of Emporia (Kan.) Teachers, and Don

Lash of Indiana. But Glen Dawson of Tulsa, Olympic steeplechase competitor, has been added with instructions to run the first half mile

in 2:01 or 2:02.

Timers will be posted at each

15-yard marker to tell the competitors how fast they are running.

Both Lovelock and Cunningham

of 4:06.7, made over the same track

in 1934, if they are properly paced for a half mile. Lovelock ran the equivalent of a 4:03 mile in beating Cunningham in the Olympics in the world record time of 3:47.8.

"Every effort will be made to establish a new mark," said Matty

Geis, Princeton track coach. "Each runner will be instructed as to the plan. If anyone does not choose to keep up with the pace, that will be his own affair, but Dawson will be out there burning up the track

for a half mile or more. After that he will be every man for himself."

Lovelock Works Hard.

Lovelock, preparing for his last

big race, has been working out twice daily in the stadium, while

Cunningham is at Harvard getting into condition. Except in the 1934

Olympics, when they both finished back, the burly Kansan has yet to beat Lovelock.

HOME TOWN FANS PLAN

BIG CELEBRATION FOR

PITCHER BOB FELLER

By the Associated Press.

VAN METTER, Ia., Sept. 29.—

William Feller, Van Meter farmer,

said today, "This town is getting ready for a big celebration for my boy, Bob, next week," and admitted

he is "pretty darned tickled" that the high-school boy pitcher is coming home.

Young Bob Feller, who, pitching

for the Cleveland Indians, set the American League one-game record

for strikeouts by going back to finish up his last year in high school after the homecoming celebration, his father said.

"They're arranging to have four bands and an exhibition baseball game and a free dance in the evening for Bob's homecoming next

Monday," Feller said, "and I imagine they'll ask Bob to make a speech. I don't know how Bob will do that."

"I understand there'll be people coming from 10 or 15 towns around here. And there'll be a good many relatives here, too. Regular family reunion."

The 17-year-old pitcher's father

said he didn't know whether "Bob

will pitch his best without three

It Takes a Lot of Players to Make a Score on the Gridiron

This picture from the U. S. C.-Oregon State football game at Los Angeles last Saturday shows how well the linemen executed their part for the benefit of the ball-carrier—the only one whose name appears in the summary of the scoring. Berryman, Southern California fullback, was able to make the necessary five yards for a touchdown. The Trojans won over the Beavers, 38 to 7, before a crowd estimated at 50,000.

FOREST PARK GOLF CLUB.

Sept. 29.—Sid Salomon of West-

wood advanced to the third round

in the municipal championship golf tournament when his first and second round opponents defaulted to him this morning.

Salomon was to have met Roy

Flesh of Woodland in the first round and Leo Bauman in the second round.

Those who competed in the event

were scheduled for 18 holes of match play in the initial round; the first all-match play tournament in the district.

The results:

FIRST ROUND.

Bob Davenport, Forest Park, 1 up in 19 holes.

James Spencer, Forest Park, defeated

Robert Griffin, Forest Park, 2-1.

Herb Lasker, Forest Park, defeated Don

Anderson, Algonquin, 1 up in 19 holes.

Ray Gates, Forest Park, defeated George

Reidman, Forest Park, 1 up in 19 holes.

Les Slattery, Meadow Brook, defeated

Tom Dickey, Forest Park, 1 up in 19 holes.

Glen Monti, Forest Park, defeated Olie

Bockenkamp, Forest Park, 4-3.

Dr. J. E. Davis, Forest Park, defeated

Charles O'Brien, Westborough, 5-3.

Jim Marion, Meadowbrook, defeated Eugene Andrews, Westborough, 5-4.

E. E. Grubb, Norwood Hills, defeated

Jim Marion, Meadowbrook, 5-3.

Vernon Tietjen, Triple A, defeated Tom

Clares, Forest Park, 5-4.

Laurence Montague, Forest Park, won

by default from Dr. Harry Scheele, Forest

Park.

Joe Switzer, Sunset, won by default

from Leo Bauman, Westwood.

L. E. Claran, Glen Echo, won by default from Leo Bauman, Westwood.

Sid Salomon, Westwood, won by default

from Roy Fleisch, Woodland.

SECOND ROUND.

Gallant Fox Great Sire.

FOR the second time in two seasons Gallant Fox, himself

a three-year-old sensation, has supplied the three-year-old sensation. Last year it was Omaha and this year Granville seems almost as outstanding as his predecessor as a juvenile.

Only one sire, that we recall,

equalled this feat of "reproducing himself" two years in succession. Man O' War did it with Crusader and American Flag.

A strange feature about the progeny of Gallant Fox, as shown in Omaha and Granville, is that neither amounted to much as a two-year-old. This follows a characteristic of their sire himself. Gallant Fox was just a fair racer as a juvenile.

Nearly all of Man O' War's good

two-year-olds had pretty good juvenile seasons, like their daddy.

of the Olympia Champions from shirted Gaucho in the way, only to be shattered by the fleet pon-

seemed to get enough of running,"

FACTORY DETTON VICTORY IN LEVIN BOUT; CLAIMS HONORS

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—In a match that lasted long past midnight, Dean Detton of Salt Lake City defeated Dave Levin of Jamaica, L. I., today to gain Pennsylvania recognition as the world's heavyweight wrestling champion.

Detton, weighing 202, ended two hours and five minutes of strenuous wrestling by application of a tenacious toehold that forced Levin to quit. His face contorted with agony, Levin signaled the referee he'd had enough.

The Easterner, who weighed 165, had appeared to hold an advantage early in the match, emerging seemingly less affected than Detton from several exchanges of body charging. Near the end, however, Detton rallied and concentrated his attack on Levin's legs, eventually putting over the hold that won him the bout and the title.

Joseph Rainey of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission presented Detton a belt emblematic of the championship.

The commission had announced prior to the bout it would recognize the winner as titleholder.

BOXERS ADVANCE TO FINALS IN TOURNEY

Richard Wells, Clarence McClure, Packler Draper, Leo Kennedy and Percy Washington, bantamweights, and Alfred Garrett, Henry Clark, Benny Wills, Tommy Brown, Dan O'Kelley, Allen Leo, Charles O'Kelley and Louis Hughes, flyweights, have survived the eliminations and will compete in the Brown Bomber A. C. boxing finals next Monday night at Croation Hall.

These boys won in the early round matches held during the past week at the Pine Street "Y." Eliminations in the six other divisions are now in progress.

Fifty-two bouts will make up the program Monday night, George Smith, manager of the Negro tournament, announced last night.

BACK FROM THIRD TOUR, GOV. LANDON TO SET OUT AGAIN

Speeches at Chicago Oct. 9, Cleveland Oct. 12 and Detroit Oct. 14 on Fourth Itinerary.

ILLINOIS ADDRESS TO BE ON BUDGET

"People Are in Fighting Mood," Nominee Says—
"There Will Be No Slackening in Campaign."

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 29.—Gov. Alf M. Landon today announced details for his fourth major tour, which will include addresses at Chicago Oct. 9, Cleveland Oct. 12 and Detroit Oct. 14.

"The people are in a fighting mood; there will be no slackening in this campaign," he said last night on his return from a 1600-mile swing through Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

"Travel during the past week through the corn belt and dairy states of the Middle West leads to the conclusion that there has developed in these states a determination to end personal government in Washington with its squandering of our resources, its waste, extravagance and incompetence.

"The farmers, the dairymen and the industrial workers in Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois, regardless of party lines, are deeply concerned, as they should be, with the problems of government and the future of the country. They not only are disturbed but aroused by the tendencies of the present national administration.

Plenty Penalized, He Says.

"The farmers are aware that the administration's agriculture policies penalize plenty and reward scarcity and have robbed them of foreign markets and home markets as well. The dairymen know their markets have been turned over to foreign producers. The workers realize that they have been made the victims under the cloak of social security of a cruel hoax in the form of the largest tax bill in history."

Landon also has other speaking tours under consideration. Aids said there was a possibility of a trip to Oklahoma City for a speech, preceding his Lake States tour.

The speeches in Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit will be supplemented by rear platform talks in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. The Chicago address, it was indicated, will be on the Federal budget.

At Moline, Ill., yesterday Landon made special reference to George N. Peek, who served the New Deal as its first AAA Administrator. Peek broke with Secretary of State Hull over the reciprocal tariff program.

"I am happy to have this opportunity to speak in the home town of George Peek, who is so vigorously fighting the battle in the interest of American agriculture," Landon said.

Repeatedly Attacks Relief.

Landon touched repeatedly on relief in his rear platform talks.

"It is not helping the needy unemployed, for the Government at Washington is squandering relief funds on useless projects or misappropriating them for the building of a gigantic political machine," he said.

"Sweeping publicity is imperative. The manner in which the present administration has hidden the details of its extravagance is a measure of its waste.

"The present administration has pointedly resisted every effort to make public the payrolls of those who conduct its relief agencies. Not only would all of us like to know, but we are entitled to know, the names of all the directors, the supervisors, the administrators, the straw bosses and the salaries they draw.

"If the administration was honest with the people who, through hidden taxes must pay the incredible bills, there would be none of this secrecy.

"All my life I have been prudent with my own money. As chief executive of this nation I would consider it my first duty to exercise an equal care with the money of the American people."

At Washington, La., Landon declared: "It's time to plow under the New Deal, and I don't mean every third row, either."

DR. MARVIN T. HAW TO PREACH

Former Pastor in St. Paul's Methodist Church Pulpit Tonight.

Dr. Marvin T. Haw of Springfield, Mo., a former pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, 1927 St. Louis avenue, will preach tonight at 8 o'clock at a service at the church as part of the week's program of celebration of the church's ninety-fifth anniversary.

St. Paul's choir, under the direction of Miss Clara Brown, will sing tomorrow night. Thursday night the Sunday school will give a reception and on Friday night there will be a pageant.

LANDON FARM PLAN TO CUT PRICES, BROOKHART SAYS

Former G. O. P. Senator Declares It Means Hovels Instead of Homes.

MANKATO, Minn., Sept. 29.—Smith W. Brookhart, former Republican Senator from Iowa and once foreign trade adviser of the Roosevelt administration, last night expressed the opinion that Gov. Alf M. Landon's farm bounty plan would result in lower farm prices.

In an address here, Brookhart said: "Landon had a bill introduced by Congressman Hope. The first section of the bill reduces farm prices to the world level and the other sections connect it with the bounty. With the present restrictions in world markets and a good crop year, these prices will almost certainly drop to the 1932 level."

"This means that the farmer will get 30 cents for his corn in the market and a 6-cent bounty. He will get 3 cents for his hogs and a six-tenths of 1-cent bounty. He will get 6 cents for his cotton and 1.2 cents bounty, or 7.2 cents total. Instead of family homes, this means family hovels for farmers."

Five-Year Terms for Killing.

By the Associated Press.

NEW MADRID, Mo., Sept. 29.—T. E. Capps was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge James Reeves after a Circuit Court jury today found him guilty of manslaughter. Capps was tried yesterday for the murder on Oct. 6, 1935, of W. E. Denton, former county clerk and one time Republican candidate for Sheriff.

NEW BRAZOS FLOOD DAMAGE EXPECTED IN LOWER VALLEY

Waters Swept South Across Texas Farm Lands Toward Meeting With Swollen Little River.

By the Associated Press. WACO, Tex., Sept. 29.—The Brazos River sent its flood waters south across fertile farm lands today toward a meeting with the swollen Little River east of Cameron.

The Brazos already has driven 2500 persons from their homes and caused damage estimated at $1,500,000 at Waco in Central Texas. Four deaths have been attributed to the flood.

"I fear we're going to see a critical situation in the lower Brazos River as this water sweeps downstream," said John A. Norris, general manager of the Brazos River conservation and reclamation district.

At Lampasas, damage was heavy. Six to eight feet of water stood in the public square last night as the river reached the highest stage in 56 years. Every establishment in the city was flooded.

In the Belton region, the Lampasas River was on the highest rise since 1913, with thousands of acres of cotton and winter grain flooded from one to 25 feet.

J. P. MORGAN BACK IN LONDON AFTER 5-WEEK GROUSE HUNT

Friends Say Financier Has Recovered Nearly Completely From Recent Illness.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 29.—J. P. Morgan returned to London today after his customary five weeks of grouse shooting in Scotland.

Friends said he appeared to have recovered almost completely from a neuritis attack suffered before he went to England in August. They said he was able to walk normally again.

Associates said he had set no date for his return to the United States and would live for a time in London.

BILL WALKER, IN AUTO CRASH

Pitcher Escapes Injury, but Other Driver Is Knocked Unconscious.

William Walker, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, escaped injury yesterday afternoon when his automobile was struck by another on the Broadway viaduct in East St. Louis.

Ben Williams of 324 Exchange avenue, East St. Louis, driver of the other car, was knocked unconscious, but refused medical treatment. He skidded into Walker's car in attempting to make a turn on the viaduct. Walker also lives in East St. Louis.

WILLIAM S. SIMS was appointed president of the War College early in 1917. On the outbreak of the World War he was given command of all United States destroyers operating from British bases. Later he was designated to command a large fleet and authorized to assume the rank of Vice-Admiral. In June of the same year he was given the title of Commander, United States naval forces operating in European waters, with the additional duties as United States naval attaché in London. In 1918 he was promoted to the rank of Admiral, and throughout the war remained commander of the United States fleet in the war zone.
Sims was immensely popular in England. When he left, the British gave him a demonstration show
as they never before had given a foreign naval officer. He was the only man other than an Englishman ever to command the British fleet; for several months he was in command of the Allied submarine chasers off the Irish coast.

Criticism of Daniels in 1919.
Returning to the United States
in 1919, the Admiral stirred up a great controversy with a report
to the Senate Naval Affairs Committee charging grave errors on the part of the administration and the Naval Board in the management of operations during the war. He criticized Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels for delay in troop ship convoys, charged that Daniels kept him in ignorance of proposed campaigns and declared that at the United States' entry into the war,
the fleet was not ready for action.
In return, Daniels said Sims sought to Prussianize the navy and to rob
the navy of its war honors.

The Admiral caused another storm when he declined to accept a Distinguished Service Medal because, as he said, the medal had been conferred on many who were not entitled to it.
Although he was recommended by Secretary Daniels for the life rank of Admiral, the honor was not conferred because of his many precedent-defying speeches, and he retired from the navy in October, 1922, on reaching the age limit of
64. He had spent 42 years in the navy.

ADMIRAL WILLIAM S. SIMS.

NEW YORK G. O. P.
NOMINATES BLEAKLEY

State Supreme Court Justice
Named Candidate for Governor on First Ballot.

By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Republican State convention today
nominated Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley of Yonkers on the first ballot as the party's candidate for Governor.

Other candidates and their vote:
State Senator George R. Pearson,
Syracuse, 348; Queens Borough
President George U. Harvey, 59;
Frank E. Gannett, Rochester publisher, 92; O. Byron Brewster, 17;
State Senator Joe R. Hawley, 22.
The convention unanimously adopted a platform standing squarely behind the "American platform" adopted by the party's national convention at Cleveland,
and criticizing the Lehman administration in New York for attempting to make our State Government a mere agency of the Federal administration.

Plank Assaults Spending.
The first plank assailed spending
both in Washington and Albany,
and promised to practice economy
without impairing essential services, overhaul the tax system, and strive for a balanced budget under pay-as-you-go policy.

The draft of an employment
plank pledged elimination of "unnecessary and harassing regulation" of private business, and encouragement of "private industry
to enter and remain in New York
thus creating permanent employment."

On social security the platform
said the party favored "at all times legislation which will honestly provide genuine social security to all our people."

Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice-presidential nominee, told the Convention last night that the Roosevelt administration's leaders
"have put themselves out."

He selected two phrases from President Roosevelt's Philadelphia
acceptance speech to meet criticism that "we should look toward the future and let the past be forgotten."

The President quoted Dante, in his acceptance speech, as saying
"Divine justice weighs the sins of the cold blooded and the sins of the warm hearted in different scales." Knox said:

"Even those tender hearted papers of the opposition that have been asking us to let the dead past bury its dead, so that the people will not realize what is going on until after the election—even those haven't the hardihood to maintain that it has been a good government."

"The best they can do is to say that the sins of the warm blooded
and the sins of the cold blooded
are weighed in different scales."

"But I tell you that the reckless blunders of the soft headed are not weighed in any scales. They are paid for in the blood and sweat
of the plain people."

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS
RENOMINATE LEHMAN

Convention Picks Him by Acclamation to Run Again
for Governor.

By the Associated Press.
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Democratic State convention today
renominated Gov. Herbert H. Lehman by acclamation today and adopted a platform pledging the party "to make no compromise in its fight to achieve a more secure and humane social order."

After being nominated for a third term, Gov. Lehman entered the convention hall. It was the signal for a prolonged demonstration.
"I am proud and happy to come before you today, to thank you for the confidence you have shown in me," Gov. Lehman said. "I give you, the delegates of this convention, and the people of the State,
my solemn pledge to serve the full
two years of my term."

The platform pledged continued
co-operation with the New Deal, advocating passage of Gov. Lehman's social security program and promising to leave the future of milk control to the will "of the majority of the dairymen."

The platform urged "a reasonable plan of old-age pensions" and unemployment insurance.
"We share the high purpose of our President and Governor that America should not purchase economic recovery and social justice
at the price, frequently paid by other countries, either of revolution
or of dictatorship," the platform
said.

The platform promised the party
would oppose the misuse "of the doctrine of states rights to create
a no-man's land from which monopolistic and exploiting interests
may snipe at our economic progress and reduce government to impotence."

"We pledge and urge co-operation between state and national power effectively to solve those labor and agricultural problems which overflow the territorial limits and the legal jurisdiction of the state," it continued, "and to reach those selfish interests which seek to escape
both state and Federal regulation."

United States Senator Robert F.
Wagner said last night in a keynote speech at the convention that the Democratic party would fight to protect the progress of the last four years "equally from Fascism
on the right and Communism on the left."

"We have assembled here," he said, "to marshal all the forces of liberalism to hold fast the gains already accomplished; to reach forward to the greater prosperity
which lies ahead; and to further the progress achieved under the incomparable and united leadership of Franklin Roosevelt and Herbert Lehman."

This progress has become the ark of the covenant of the Democratic Party. We shall never yield its safe keeping to the tender mercies of the enemy.

"We shall protect it equally from Fascism on the right and Communism on the left. We shall maintain America's position as the stronghold of democratic institutions and the peacemaker of world prosperity."

Democratic Chairman James A.
Farley predicted sweeping victories
for Roosevelt and Lehman, and Robert H. Jackson, assistant United States Attorney-General, assailed the tactics of the Republican leaders.

LA FOLLETTE CHARGES G. O. P.
WITH 'FOREIGN BOON-DOGGING'

Refers Thus to Loans Floated in U. S. in Defending Roosevelt Administration's Expenditures.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Senator
Robert M. La Follette Jr., Progressive, Wisconsin, called on all liberals last night to unite in seeking the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Suggestions that the President
had a desire to become a dictator have no foundation, he said, and as to Government spending under present administration, "it is less than the burden imposed on our financial structure by the speculative foreign loans floated in this country with the blessings of Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Mellon to finance a foreign boondoggling program."

La Follette spoke over the radio in the first of a series of programs arranged under auspices of the Progressive National Committee, the non-partisan Labor League and the Good Neighbor League.

"Progressive minded citizens," he said, "must close ranks to face the forces of reaction which are solidly behind Gov. Landon." He accused Landon of trying to "out-Hoover Mr. Hoover" east of the Alleghenies and trying to gain Western votes by creating the impression that he will "out-Roosevelt Mr.
Roosevelt."

TWO COMMERCIAL AIR ROUTES
TO U.S. CONSIDERED BY RUSSIA

One Favored Is 7250 Miles Long Between Moscow and Seattle.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Sept. 29.—Two air routes across the top of the world
from Moscow to Seattle were considered today at a conference of Soviet authorities planning a commercial air line between Russia and the United States. The flight could be made in four to five days, officials said.

The first route, although the northerly one, was favored by the scientists, aviators, Arctic explorers
and administrative officials summoned by Ivan F. Tkacheff, chief of the Central Civil Air Fleet Administration. It is approximately 7250 miles long, including 1250 miles of open sea.

From Moscow, the line would span Siberia, then across the Bering Strait and down the North American West Coast by way of Cape Lawrence and Nome, Alaska, and White Horse, Y. T., to Seattle.

The southerly route is 1000 miles longer and was regarded unsatisfactory because of generally unfavorable meteorological conditions.
It traverses the same route from Moscow to Nagayev Bay, then
the south to Kamchatka, Siberia,
and across the Bering Sea over the Aleutian Islands and to Seattle by way of Seward, Southeast Alaska.

GROUP OF EDUCATORS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO ROOSEVELT

Five Former Heads of National Association Enumerate Aid Given to Schools.

By the Associated Press.
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 29.—
A testimonial praising New Deal activities in behalf of education
during the depression and pledging support for his re-election was presented to President Roosevelt today by 12 educators representing a committee of the Progressive Good Neighbor League, headed by Stanley High. In the delegation were five former presidents of the National Education Association.
The names of 34 other educators
were attached.

The testimonial reviewed the situation in 1932 and 1933, when, it said, the public schools were "threatened with breakdown," and enumerated aid extended by Roosevelt: Over $600,000,000 for grants
for education purposes; nearly 75-000 school buildings, repaired or improved; half million illiterate
adults taught to read and write;
help extended to 372,181 high school,
college and graduate students;
nearly 80,000 unemployed teachers
given positions.

The delegation included among former presidents of the National Education Association, Uel W. Lamkin, president of Northwest Missouri State Teachers' College, Maryville, Mo. Also in the delegation were Prof. Thomas F. Knapp, dean of the Notre Dame University Law School, South Bend, Ind.; Annie C. Woodward, director of the National Education Association,
and John A. Wieland, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Springfield, Ill.

Hull to Answer Landon on Facts.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Roosevelt administration's answer to Gov. Alf M. Landon's criticism of the reciprocal trade policy of the administration was given by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, it was announced today
by the Democratic National Committee. Hull will open his speaking campaign in Minneapolis Oct.
7. It was in Minneapolis that the Republican nominee declared the reciprocal trade policy of the administration was detrimental to American agriculture.

CHINESE WARNS
LEAGUE OF WAR
DANGER IN ORIENT

Wellington Koo Says Far Eastern Situation May Have Serious Repercussions in Europe.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 29.—Warning of the "veritable danger of explosion"
in the Far East was given in the League of Nations Assembly today by Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate. He asserted developments in the Orient might have serious repercussions in Europe.

He called attention to the "intensification of preparations for war,
frequent movement of troops behind the frontiers, multiplication
of border incidents and extension of arms and aggression."

Canadian Premier Speaks.
Prime Minister Mackenzie King
of Canada, who said that we in Canada are particularly fortunate both in our neighbors and in our lack of neighbors," the Prime Minister asserted, "and we agree that we cannot reasonably expect our relations and our attitude to be wholly duplicated elsewhere."

Reproof From New Zealand.
William Jordan, delegate from New Zealand, a newly elected member of the League Council, declared
"60 nations of the world, united to enforce the principles of the Covenant, retired in defeat," from their efforts to stop Italy from seizing Ethiopia.

"This is a sad, sorry tale," Jordan
said. "It is not worth while for us
to come here at all unless our system of collective security can be made effective."

He said New Zealand was ready to support the establishment of an international police force if such a step were necessary to restrain aggressors.

Japan's Foreign Minister Says
China Must Choose Peace or War

Hachiro Arita Declares His Country Is Ready to Take Whatever Action May Be Necessary.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Sept. 29.—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita, in an interview with foreign correspondents,
said yesterday Japan was "ready to carry out whatever measures are necessary to suppress the anti-Japanese campaign in China."

"China is now at the crossroads and must decide whether for not she will shake hands with Japan,"
he declared. "The opinion is steady-ly growing among Japanese at home and abroad that further negotiations are useless. Should the negotiations terminate, the lives
and property of a large Japanese population in China must not be left exposed to further damage."

He was asked: "If negotiations break down, does that mean war?"
"There is no such word as war in the Japanese diplomatic vocabulary," Arita answered.
He said China did not seem to realize the gravity of the situation.
"Gen. Chiang Kai-shek (dictator of China) is sufficiently powerful," Arita went on, "to terminate the anti-Japanese campaign which is trying more than ever at this juncture to alienate Japan and China."
As Chiang Kai-shek succeeded in settling the difficult Southwestern situation, he surely can settle this one, which is more important for the life of China."

Arita said Chinese-Japanese relations could not be permitted to drift in the same poorly defined manner as at present. "I hope China will grasp our proffered hand," he said.

PALESTINE TO HAVE MILITARY DICTATOR

Britain Orders Martial Law in Effort to End Terrorism
by Arabs.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 29.—Great Brittain today ordered martial law put into effect in Palestine to end the terrorism which Arabs have waged
in the Holy Land for months against Jewish immigration.

Military rule will be put in force
by a proclamation to be issued by the Palestine High Commissioner. The step was announced officially in the London Gazette.

The commissioner's proclamation
will delegate virtual dictatorial power to Lieutenant-General J. G.
Dill, commander of the recently augmented military forces in Palestine.

The date of issuance of the proclamation as well as a second, supplementary one outlining the exact powers which will be granted Gen.
Dill will be decided on later. The move was taken under the power of a so-called order-in-council, issued by the Privy Council.

The signature of King Edward VIII was signed to the document
at Balmoral Castle, Scotland.
The authority to be granted Gen.
Dill will include power to make any regulation necessary for the public safety, as well as establishment of military courts, imposition of censorship and wide discretion in ordering arrests, detention and exclusion and deportation from the Holy Land.

He also will be enabled to requisition, control and order the forfeiture of private property. He will have the authority to impose communal fines and order the destruction of property as punishment for violation of any of his decrees. British authorities for some time have been seizing and dynamiting houses

used as bases of operations by U.
rioters.
The military courts will have the widest powers in the Holy Land, the Government announcing their verdict "shall not be open to challenge
or review elsewhere."

Mob Kills Arab Suspected of Trading
With Jews.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 29.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—An Arab
band raided a village near Acre
and killed a prominent Arab merchant they suspected of trading
with Jews.

Other cases of violence were reported from many parts of the Holy Land as the Arab Supreme Committee, under pressure of Arab fruit growers, met to take a decision on continuance or cessation of the 24-week-old general strike against Jewish immigration and sale of land to Jews.

President Designates Pulaski Day.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Presi-

memoration of the one hundredth death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish officer who was mortally wounded

at the siege of Savannah while fighting with the American Revolu-

SPANISH PRETENDER
KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Alfonso Carlos of Bourbon Whose Claim Dates From 1833, Dies in Vienna.

By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, Sept. 29.—Prince Alfonso Carlos of Bourbon, who once attempted to seize the throne of Spain, died early today after being struck by an automobile last night.
For many years he maintained a shabby royal establishment in Vienna to support his claim as Carlist
pretender to the Spanish crown.
His corps of servants dwindled from 30 to a single doorman.
The Prince gained a reputation for eccentricity by founding a world league against dueling.
On an African tour he adopted
a Negro girl who is now managing the palace.

The 85-year-old Duc de San Jaime, head of the traditionalist branch of the Spanish royal family, was considered by thousands of Spaniards to be rightful King of Spain. He succeeded to the leadership of his family in 1931 on the death of his nephew, Jaime, Duc de Madrid. Alfonso Carlos, many of whose adherents are fighting with the Fascist forces in the Spanish civil war, spent the last years of his life in quarrels with former King Alfonso and in efforts to overthrow the Spanish republic.

The family difficulties, which began in 1833 when the first Don Carlos, second son of King Charles IV of Spain, was barred from the throne in favor of his niece, "Isa-bella. Don Carlos and Alfonso were thought to have reached an agreement recently to work together for restoration of the monarchy. Since early in 1934 Carlists have been working for a Monarchist-Rightist combination to set up a corpora-tive Spanish state.

A political cartoon by S. J. Ray. The central figure is a man in a dark suit, white shirt, and bowler hat, bent over at the waist. He is holding a large scythe and is in the process of cutting a large, curved banner that arches over him. The banner has the words "FARM VOTES" written on it in bold, capital letters. The banner is being cut into two pieces, with one piece already separated and falling away. The background shows a simple landscape with a small house and a field. The signature "S. J. Ray" is in the bottom right corner.

ton Webb, in the Theater Guild's newest offering last night.
Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein, newcomers to the legitimate stage,
but experienced in motion picture
work, are the authors. Miss Gahagan had little comedy in her role of a banker's widow. Ben Smith's earnest speeches as a reform-type young politician seeking to help
the masses, won Miss Gahagan
near the end of the third act.

An exhibition of old and rare books, valued at about $75,000, will be shown by Maurice Inman, New York book dealer, at the Junior League book shop, The Open Door, 4932 Maryland avenue, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The books, most of which are British, include many of the first editions and books in fine bindings. One of the rarest is a copy of John Milton's "Paradise Regained" and "Samson Agonistes," bound together and first published in 1671.

There is also a more common book, still of considerable value, Milton's "Paradise Lost," published in 1669, two years after first publication.

Also included are first editions of Shelley's "Epipsychidion" and "Prometheus Unbound." The latter is the poet's best known odes. One of Shelley's contemporaries is also represented in a volume of poetry by John Keats which contains his "Lamia," "Isabella," "The Eve of St. Agnes," and "The Bard." This volume was first published in 1820 and was bound by Cobden Sanderson, a noted British binder of the time. It is an uncut copy.

Other items in the collection include a Shakespeare folio and first edition of "The Works of John Dryden," "Faerie Queene," Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," Samuel Johnson's "Rasselas," Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," Blackstone's "Commentaries," "The Works of John Jay," Spenser's "Tristram Shandy" and "A Sentimental Journey," Goldsmith's "Citizen of the World" and "The Deserted Village," and Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." David Copperfield

There are also first editions of some of the books of Smollett, Richardson, Thackeray, Trollope, Walter Scott, Stevenson, Byron, Coleridge, Lewis Carroll and Thomas Hardy, in addition to some color-plate and sporting books and illuminated manuscripts.

with a short train. The gown was trimmed with a lace collar and cuffs and at the front a row of tiny white satin covered buttons extended from the neck to the hemline. Her veil of tulle was held in place by orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Drummond wore a gown of rose-colored taffeta designed on Empire lines. She wore a Mary Queen of Scots hat of malines and velvet to match

The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the Forest Park Hotel for the bridal party and the families. After the honeymoon, Mr. Drummmond and his bride will live in St. Louis. She is a graduate of the Harris Teachers' College and was Torch Queen in 1934 and president of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority the same year. Mr. Drummmond received his education at St. Mary's College, St. Mary's, Kan., and the St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance.

REDUCTION OF $5,000,000

IN MISSOURI STATE LIFE LIENS

Approved by Representatives of Insurance Departments of 10 States.

A special reduction of $5,000,000 in liens on the old Missouri State Life Insurance Co. policies has been approved by representatives of the insurance departments of 10 states, meeting here to complete a final report on a recent insurance convention examination of the General American Life Insurance Co., which took over the Missouri State in 1933.

Missouri Insurance Superintendent R. Emmet O'Malley said this was in addition to the periodic reductions called for in the General American's purchase contract and that under the contract the next adjustment of the liens will be in December, 1937. He said the insurance commissioners were agreed the company's earnings justified the special reduction. It is understood the company was in accord with the findings of the examiners on this point.

This lien reduction will be effective as of Dec. 31, and after it is made the outstanding liens will be approximately $16,000,000, or half of the original liens of $32,000,000. Representatives of the insurance departments expected to complete their study of the report today. After it is in final form it will be filed with O'Malley at Jefferson City.

DR. SAMUEL ZINTNER DIES;

DEVELOPED RADIO INVENTIONS

Vice-President in Charge of Engineering for the Westinghouse Co.; 64 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 29.—Dr. Samuel Montgomery Zintner, 64 years old, internationally known for his research work in the development of radio communication, died at his home yesterday.

He was vice-president in charge of engineering at the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.

In 1911, Mr. Zintner became general manager of the National Signaling Co., then developing radio inventions for commercial use. He later became president of the company, and after the war, he negotiated a sale to Westinghouse of the patent rights of his company, which later were sold by Westinghouse to the Radio Corporation of America.

Admiral Sims, Wartime

Chief of U. S. Navy, Dies

active service—24 years at sea and 18 on land.

"Beans Spilled" Again in 1921.

In 1921 he committed another serious indiscretion when he made a speech in London touching on the Irish situation, then acute. He was quoted as saying that the Sinn Fein had hampered the work of Allied troops in the war, and had "attacked us indirectly."

This speech was strenuously protested. Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby recalled him to Washington. After the charges had been investigated, Sims was publicly reprimanded by Denby.

"I got what I deserved," he said. "I spilled the beans. I am very sorry to have caused the administration any embarrassment. I didn't know the speech was loaded as much as it was."

On June 21, 1930, while in retirement, he received the permanent rank of Admiral.

Born in Canada, 1858.

Sims was born in Port Hope, Ontario, Oct. 15, 1858. His father, a civil engineer, whose family had been established in Pennsylvania for nearly 200 years, went to Canada to construct certain harbor improvements, and while there met and married a Canadian girl. The future United States Admiral was born there and was not taken to the Pennsylvania home of his father until he was nearly 10 years old.

He was interested in the navy from boyhood. There had for years been difficulty in getting candidates for Annapolis when the Congressman in Sims' district, in 1875, began looking for a likely lad to nominate for the school.

Only three responded, one of them Sims' older brother. Competitive examinations were held, but the successful candidate failed to pass the physical tests, and Sims' brother was ruled out because he was too old. It was then that the future Admiral decided to try his luck. He failed to get through the paper work and was denied admittance, but at the end of a year he tried again. The superintendent at Annapolis asked the Congressman not to appoint a boy who had failed so far short of the requirements only a year before, but the Congressman put Sims up again, and he passed. "I just scraped in," he often remarked afterward.

28th in Class of 56.

He found the work more difficult than he had expected. For several months his position at the foot of the class was precarious, but gradually he forged ahead, and in 1880 finished twenty-eighth in a class of 56.

He immediately lost interest in the navy and got a leave of absence to visit Paris. He remained in France more than a year.

His service record shows he was assigned to the U. S. S. Philadelphia on his return to the United States, and that he was naval attaché at Paris and Petrograd from 1897 to 1900; that he had charge of secret service work in Spain, Russia and Italy during the Spanish-American War, and that all these duties were performed well. He was 43 years old at that time, and had not risen above the grade of Lieutenant.

Critical Reports From China.

It was while stationed in China that Sims really introduced himself to the Navy Department at Washington. The introduction was in the form of lengthy reports, most of which were insubordinately critical of naval equipment and naval administration. Most Americans at that time thought the United States sea-arm was hardly second to the best, but Sims, a minor officer stationed beyond the borders of the country, began to tell them that the navy was a joke. One British ship, he said, could easily dispose of four or five American vessels of corresponding type.

The reports multiplied when Sims went to Petrograd. For months they were dumped at the rate of two or three a day on the indignant naval officials at Washington. In three years Sims sent in more reports than all the other European naval attaches combined. His correspondence contained 11,000 pages.

In 1901 Sims submitted a report charging faulty construction of American battleships. Its receipt was not acknowledged, and for three years it was lost. It was ultimately found in the desk of a bureau chief and almost consumed by cockroaches. Most of his other reports were consigned to the flames.

Letter to Theodore Roosevelt.

Accused of insubordination, and more than once barely escaping court-martial, Sims wrote to Theodore Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and suggested that the fleet be ordered out for target practice. "To the surprise of all who knew of Sims' campaign, the entire Atlantic fleet was sent out to try its hand at sinking a condemned sailing ship. At a little more than half a mile from the target, the vessels began blazing away, but after thousands of rounds the old windjarkner remained intact, with only two holes in its sails.

Several years passed. In the meantime Roosevelt became President. Sims had never ceased to write scathing reports, but when they went unanswered he determined to defy navy regulations and appeal directly to the President through the mails. It was a historical communication, that letter to Roosevelt. It told of all the previous reports, and made many and varied suggestions.

"Get me all those reports," was immediately ordered another target practice, and found that there had been virtually no improvement in marksmanship since the previous one. The gunners made 13 per cent of hits. The British navy was averaging 80 to 85.

Called Home and Promoted.

"Cable to China for that young man to come home at once," Roosevelt told the navy. "Give him entire charge of target practice for 18 months; do exactly as he says. If he does not accomplish something in that time, cut off his head and try somebody else."

Lieut. Sims thus became inspector of target practice, a position he held for more than six years. At the expiration of that time the United States gunners were by actual comparison the best in the world.

President Roosevelt, in an official communication issued in 1909, said: "Commander Sims has done more for target practice than any other man in the United States. It is chiefly due to him that we shoot as well as we do. It is humiliating to think what poor shots we were during the Spanish war."

Meanwhile, Sims had shifted his attack to other and more glaring faults. He began calling attention to ship construction. Of the old battleship Kentucky, he declared: "She is not a battleship at all. She is the worst crime in naval construction ever perpetrated on the white race."

The new series of reports went unnoticed. The Navy even continued to contract for more ships precisely like those which Sims had pronounced useless.

A Most Audacious Campaign.

Finally, he decided on a course even more insubordinate and audacious than his letter to President Roosevelt. He would carry his case directly to the American people. He communicated with a friend, Henry Reuter, a marine architect, and aided him in the preparation of a series of articles pointing out the defects of United States naval ships. The first installment appeared in a magazine just as the navy started on its cruise around the world in 1908. Probably no single article ever published in this country caused such a sensation.

Suspicion immediately settled on Sims, and the Senate took note of the situation and started an investigation. President Roosevelt, although not actually inspiring the Reuter articles, has known that they were being prepared.

When Sims received a letter from the Navy Department demanding an explanation of his conduct, he immediately took it to President Roosevelt.

"Apparently they intend to court-martial me," he said. "Well, don't you deserve it?" "Haven't you been insubordinate?"

"Yes," Sims replied, "just as insubordinate as you were on a famous occasion."

The reference was to Roosevelt's "Round Robin" on the Spanish-American War.

After Sims had left, Roosevelt sent for the Secretary of the Navy and ordered him to drop all court-martial proceedings. The Senate, too, which had started an investigation, abandoned it.

Reprimanded by President Taft.

There was considerable surprise, however, when it was discovered in 1910 that Sims had no scruples against taking a hand in international relations and affairs of state. His first venture into this field, as well as his subsequent ones, caused the Government to chafe for many days, and finally called for a reprimand from President William Howard Taft.

The United States fleet had been sent on a friendly visit to France and England, but had received no instructions to include Germany. This the Germans regarded as something approaching an insult.

The situation was made infinitely worse when Admiral Sims, speaking at a luncheon to English sailors at the Guildhall, London, concluded as follows:

"If the time ever comes when the British Empire is seriously menaced by a European coalition, your people can count upon every ship, every dollar, every man and every drop of blood of your kindred across the sea."

Sims afterward explained: "I spoke from the heart, not from the head," but the Germans looked on his statement as a virtual declaration of eventual war by the United States, and were far from satisfied by the prompt disavowal from the State Department.

President Roosevelt "Deeply Grieved." Sims "Dynamic, Forceful."

States Ambassador Josephus Daniels, wartime Secretary of the Navy, said last night Admiral Sims "was one of the most brilliant officers in the American navy."

"At the beginning of the war, knowing how highly he was esteemed by the British navy, I selected him to go to London in the certainty that he would secure the quickest and most cordial co-operation with the British navy, with which our own navy was so closely connected during the war," Daniels said.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU FOOD SUPPLY ESTIMATE

Per Capita Amount 3 Pct. Less Than That Actually Used in 1935-36 Season.

The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. — The agricultural bureau today estimated that the nation's 1936-37 food supply per person would be about 3 per cent less than the amount actually used during the 1935-36 season. The estimate was made public by Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics. He said it was compiled in an effort to appraise the nation's food situation as related to the total population.

The total per capita supply of all major foods for domestic consumption for the 12 months ending with June, 1937, probably will be about 3 per cent less than the amount consumed or disappeared during the corresponding period in 1935-36; 1 per cent less than the per capita supply of 1934-35; 5 per cent less than that of 1933-34, and 8 per cent less than the 1925-29 average per capita supply.

The per capita supply of meats, other than poultry was estimated at 1 per cent greater than last year. Poultry meats were expected to be 1 per cent greater, the report said. Supplies of eggs, and of butter and milk, it added, may be down 4 per cent and 6 per cent respectively.

tively. A per capita supply of lard about 8 per cent larger than last year was forecast, chiefly because of the larger pig crop last spring. Prospects for vegetables for fresh market shipment were reported considerably improved, with the per capita supply of all fresh vegetables combined estimated about 6 per cent greater than last season and 17 per cent above 1933-34 supplies. Quantities of potatoes available per person were expected to be about 13 per cent below the 1925-29 average and 16 per cent less than in 1935-36. Sweet potatoes may be 23 per cent less than last season's per capita supply, the report added.

CHAMINADE COLLEGE EVENT

School to Observe Foundation Day
In Memory of Priest.
Chaminade College on Lindbergh boulevard near Ladue road will observe Foundation day Friday, honoring Father Chaminade for whom the school was named. Following the French Revolution, Father Chaminade founded the Society of Mary and lived to see the order established in the United States in 1849.

World wide membership in the society is now over 2000, of which 800 are in North America.

U. S. ATTORNEY IN CHINA HOME ON 60-DAY LEAVE

Feltham Watson Tells of Beggarly
With Russian Guards.
Feltham Watson, attorney for the United States Court of China, departed for Washington today after visiting his father, Andrew H. Watson, 24 Arundel place. He is on a 60-day leave from his office in Shanghai.

Telling of his observations in China, he said beggars in the International Settlement at Shanghai have organized a guild. Children are forced to turn over their receipts to the leaders, while the international police patrol the district with a "beggars' wagon," taking their prisoners to the Chinese sections and releasing them. Many of the wealthy Chinese, he said, employ white Russians as bodyguards, to protect them against kidnapers and robbers.

Opium-smoking is curbed by authorities, he said, but is difficult to check, since pills may be purchased for 3 cents. Watson is a St. Louis University alumnus.

DRIVER'S LICENSE SUSPENDED, SEEKS NEW ONE, FINED $50

Henry Kouchooukos Charged With Making False Statement; Says
He Acted on Friend's Advice.
Henry Kouchooukos, a clerk, 2619 North Prairie avenue, was fined $50 by Provisional Police Judge Edward Ruddy yesterday for making a false statement when applying for a driver's license. A charge of using a false name in making the application was dismissed.

Joseph Schneider, license examiner, testified Kouchooukos applied for a driver's license Aug. 15 and did not state that a license which he obtained previously was under 90-day suspension. His original license was suspended by the late Judge George Vest for speeding Aug. 12.

Kouchooukos testified a friend advised him to re-apply for another license, but refused to give his friend's name when asked by Judge Ruddy. He will appeal.

THE RONALD COLMAN
YOU NEVER KNEW!

He's usually pictured as a quiet, beshippered English book worm... who keeps very much to himself. Well, he is English... and he's not exactly boisterous, but you'll be surprised to meet the Real Ronald Colman. He is introduced to you in this issue of Screen Guide.

Director EDWARD H. GRIFFITH GIVES THE INSIDE DOPE ON Handling the "Ladies in Love"

Put Constance Bennett, Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young and Simone Simon all in the same cast! Would you care to be the director? But Griffith did the impossible... he co-starred four temperamental, ambitious young actresses—and got away with it!

SCREEN GUIDE is FIRST with the WEDDING STORY
Here's the last chapter in a romance that has kept Hollywood in a dither for months. Now they're married... and starting a honeymoon on the high seas. Once more, Screen Guide scores a great scoop with a great story about two of Hollywood's greatest stars.

THIS is Ginger
By JOHNNY GREEN
who knew her when!

To most of us, Ginger Rogers means twinkling toes and a gorgeous smile. But to Johnny Green, famous band leader... and to all her close friends... there is a subtle something about this effin whirlwind that can never be caught in a professional interview. Johnny Green knows what it is and turns author to tell the world. A remarkable story of a person who can't be "typed."

Franchot Tone
AS HIS BEST FRIENDS KNOW HIM!

Franchot Tone is a rarity in Hollywood! Retiring... really shy... he shuns publicity. Few get to know him well but, to those who do, he is quite a different person from the stuff-shirt hero he plays so often. Read the real story of this very real gentleman as told by one of his few close friends, Jerry Asher.

OTHER FEATURES IN THIS ISSUE:
Memoirs of a Hollywood Doctor. Never has so much of the beautiful and so much of the sordid been revealed as is told in these recollections of a physician who knew Hollywood when Hollywood was young... who has seen it grow and who has known—intimately—its finest and its most disreputable personalities.
The Future of Ten Hollywood Romances. Mme. Wanda has started all moviedom with her prophecies. In this fascinating article she analyzes ten current Hollywood romances and predicts their future low-life.
How Olivia de Havilland Found Success. Born in the hills near Tokyo, cared for by a Japanese nurse, she has an appreciation of the oriental. How much it affects her, no one can tell, but Olivia de Havilland is different. Her rise to stardom is a fascinating story that begins in this issue.
Meet Martha Raye. Born in theatre, the theatre has been her whole life... until this homeliest (or most beautiful) girl crashed Hollywood and became an outstanding success in "Rhythm on the Range." It's a strange story about a strangely beautiful (or homely) girl.
The Amazing Story Behind the John Gilbert Auctions. Garbo, Dietrich, Virginia Bruce—and a little girl, played an unheated drama when the effects of John Gilbert went under the hammer.

HEART to HEART Letter to CLARK GABLE and CAROLE LOMBARD
By ADELE WHITELY FLETCHER

In the spontaneous, merry friendship of these two, Adele Fletcher sees something that is all too rare in Hollywood... people who know how to be themselves. Oblivious to everything... press agents, social conventions, gossip... these two are laughing their way into one of the finest friendships Hollywood has ever known.

LOANS RISE $5,000,000

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Climbing to the highest level since early in 1933, commercial and industrial loans, agricultural banks of the Federal Reserve System in 101 leading cities were shown in a weekly condition statement today to have reached $3,879,000,000 during the week ended Sept. 23.

These advances rose $17,000,000 during the week. It was the eighth consecutive weekly increase, bringing the total on Sept. 23 to $527,000,000 over the same week a year ago.

Of the $17,000,000 increase, $5,000,000 was accounted for in the New York district and $5,000,000 in the St. Louis district.

HAMILTON'S ST. LOUIS ADDRESS CALLED OFF

Ex-Gov. Cooper of Ohio Substituted for G. O. P. Chairman as Speaker Friday.

Former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio has been substituted for John M. D. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, as speaker at the opening meeting of the St. Louis Republican campaign to be held Friday night at the Armory, Grand boulevard and Market street.

Republican National Committee headquarters at Chicago advised Chairman Fred W. Pape of the Republican City Committee yesterday that Hamilton would be unable to attend because of conflicting engagements, but that he probably could appear here later in the campaign.

Cooper, who lives at Cincinnati, is executive assistant to Hamilton. He will arrive Friday and will be at Hotel Jefferson.

James G. Blaine, chairman of the Speakers' Committee, will introduce Chairman Pape, who will preside at the meeting. Republican nominees will be seated on the platform and will be introduced.

The Armory has a seating capacity of 3000 and amplifiers will be installed outside for those who cannot obtain seats.

HAY ASKS WHY LONDON HAS CHANGED FRONT

In Kansas Speech Compares Nominee's Views on New Deal Now and in 1933-35.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 29.—Charles M. Hay, former City Counselor of St. Louis, now an Assistant to the Attorney-General of the United States, delivered a speech here last night devoted to comparison of Gov. Alf M. Landon's utterances about the New Deal, in 1933-35, and in the present year. "Why Has Gov. Landon Changed Front?" was Hay's theme.

Hay began his citations with a quoted utterance of Landon in February, 1933, before President Roosevelt's inauguration, urging that the President be given "the same powers we would give him in time of war." He quoted the Governor as saying on March 27 of that year, that he wished to acknowledge, on behalf of his State, the President's courage in attacking the depression, and to "enlist for the duration of the war" to aid him.

As to NRA, Hay cited utterances attributed to Gov. Landon over a nearly two-year period, relating to the oil codes. Landon was quoted as having said that "the iron hand of a dictator is preferable to a paralytic stroke," and as having demanded price-fixing, in the form of "a guaranteed minimum price for crude." The speaker said Landon declared former President Hoover's state-commodity idea to be "about the dearest horse I know," this being due to the attitude of Texas. A message of the Kansas Governor to Secretary Ickes, praising the handling of the oil code, and promising "continued co-operation," was quoted.

Co-Operated With AAA.
The speaker said that Gov. Landon, now a critic of AAA, co-operated with AAA while it was in force, and in 1933 joined with other Governors in urging a farm program which proposed more extensive Government regulation. This program, Hay said, included inflation, and payment of the Fourth Liberty Loan in greenbacks.

Arguing that the Roosevelt policies had helped the farmers of Kansas and other states, Hay asked whether, "now that Mr. Landon has become critical of those policies, you can depend on him to help agriculture as President Roosevelt has helped it."

Hay said that Landon in 1934, campaigning for re-election as Governor, commended "the relief program and its administration" as "a good job, considering the problems they have met." In April, 1934, he said, Gov. Landon wrote to the President that the civil works program was "one of the soundest, most constructive policies of your administration, and I cannot urge too strongly its continuance." He gave several quotations to show that Gov. Landon sought to get Kansas' full share of Federal relief and PWA money, and added that "up to April 30 last Kansas, under Gov. Landon, received a total of $32,228,174 for Federal and non-Federal projects. Why," he asked, "has he now changed front?"

Quotes Campaign Speeches.
He quoted from Landon campaign speeches and an advertisement printed for him in 1934, to show that the Governor sought re-election on his record of support of and co-operation with the New Deal. One of the campaign statements quoted was that "Federal authorities have commended the efforts made during my administration to work with the national program." This was contrasted with the presidential candidate's statement that American ideals were "being betrayed by a wasteful, slipshod, incompetent, happy-go-lucky administration."

Asking the reason for "this amazing change of front," Hay answered by saying: "He has become a candidate for President, and knowing that New Deal supporters are satisfied to vote for Mr. Roosevelt, must appeal to the critics and opponents of the New Deal. Which Landon are you to believe in? When is he sincere?"

He suggested that Landon's radio delivery, "which sounds like a man who doesn't believe much in what he is saying," might be due to lack of conviction. On the other hand, he admitted the possibility that the Governor might have had a genuine change of opinion, and said his opposition to guaranty of bank deposits pointed to an underlying sympathy with "the bankers and the money power." He left the question to the audience.

'CORN BELT HOLDING THE BAG'

G. O. P. Says South Is Turning to Hog-Raising Under New Deal.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The Republican National Committee said today that increased production of hogs by farmers in the South Atlantic and Gulf States was causing concern among producers of the Middle West.

Don L. Berry, assistant director of the committee's farm division, said in a statement issued by the committee that he was receiving many inquiries regarding the situation. He was quoted as saying curtailment of cotton production, demanded by the administration, has caused the Southern farmer to turn to hog raising "and the shift finds the corn belt holding the bag while the South reaps profits from an industry that long has been legitimately a source of benefit to the Middle West."

Various Items About Proper Table Service

The Used Plates Are Not Removed Until All Those Present Are Finished.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been told that it is more correct to have the waitress remove the used plates in front of guests just as soon as each guest has finished eating. I have always instructed my servants to wait until everyone at the table
has finished and
have never seen
any other way
practiced. Personally I should think removing the dishes
in relays would make less eating
horribly nervous
about holding back service.

Answer: It was the custom in the fashionable houses many years ago—particularly in New York—to remove each plate the instant a fork was laid down upon
it. But for the reasons you give,
no many eaters were made uncomfortable that the convention has changed entirely and in the present day no hostess has the plates removed until the last fork at the table has been put down.

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the purpose of the paper frills sometimes seen on the ends of chopsticks? A friend insists that they were designed so that chop could be taken up in the fingers when necessary to eat the meat next to the bone,
which might otherwise have to be cut.

Answer: Whether they were originally intended as a protection for the fingers, I have no idea, but it is quite possible—and yet I have not seen this reason, what about the fact that a ham bone is also covered with a frill? Mightn't this suggest that it too was intended to be taken up? However, according to table manners as we of today
know them, the frills are mere decorations.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether, when buying a set of service plates, it is correct to buy them with different designs, or just they be uniform both in design and size?

Answer: The shape and border
must be uniform and the decoration
similar in coloring, but they might differ in design. For instance, they might have frills of different kinds and in the center, or each one might have a different flower. Or,
as another example, I am thinking of the best of service plates sold several years ago by the Architects' Emergency Relief Fund. On each plate was a different picture of an American historical scene.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Martha Carr:
WERE it not that I should feel that I was a quitter, I would go far away in order to get out of the troubles I have. I have never in my married life expected
it to be anything but a 50-50 proposition; but I have gone 95 percent and I think that is too much.
I live on a farm and perhaps you have some idea how hard farm life can be, even with family life running smooth. I have raised four children, made garden, raised chickens, milked four cows twice a day and peddled milk and butter.
I have done my own washing, canning, sewing, nursing, feed the stock, and even pumped the water;
hence you can see that I have had no time for neighboring or having friends—and the one person
I thought my friends turned out to be my husband's friend (?)

I am but 40 years old, though have lived a life-time and sometimes wonder why the good men get such poor wives—I am asking you, does it pay to be good?

I have kept myself, as to my conduct, above reproach—and it has gotten me nowhere. The man I married smokes, drinks, chews
cigars, lies—and has a host of friends. He even expects me to be thrilled every time he comes near me. Oh, if men only knew how we loathe them when they fall
so badly. I am not asking for advice or sympathy. I am old enough to walk out and leave it all behind, were it not for my children.
I do not want them to suffer for the mistake I made in marrying their father.

LONELY.

We can only live our lives as we are directed by our inner conscience and by the ideals which give us a worthy goal. And those who live by such direction and who feel there is something finer than the physical comfort and mental rest that our families should offer,
may be lonely at times, but are only happy in the end because of having gone through without stumbling and falling.

I believe one reason (and I am
among the minority, I think wither men or women, who give voice
to it) witness most of the "sobsquad" columns) that husbands feel
they are privileged to be as selfish
as they please and to exact whatever they desire from their wives,
because they are so constantly encouraged, both by the written and spoken word, in thinking that wives should strenuously and unceasingly be studying how to "keep their husbands." How often do you see an article in a newspaper or magazine or hear the idea expressed in conversation, that a man must be on the qui vive to please and "keep his wife?" Office girls and business women (who have never known the home-keeping job) are particularly ready to give wives advice about how to be amiable and adaptable and keep their husbands; sometimes offering a scathing denunciation of the wife, as an alibi, when they coolly attempt to appropriate the husband.

One of the poorest and lamest
of these articles has recently been published (announced as a bright
new solution) in one of the best known women's magazines. The situation is no different on the farms.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

SAW in the paper the other evening that some movie star was sitting the whites of eggs and beaten mixed for dinner. I was wondering if this is good for the skin. Could you tell me?

I have some pimples on my face
and would like to get rid of them.
I do not eat many sweets and have had these pimples for about two years. SHERRY BENNET.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

ifications of an air steward-

As a Woman Views Affairs In New York

There Is Much Public Oratory on Hand—Items
About Town.

By Alice Hughes.

(Copyright, 1936.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.
WE probably have more free shows here than anywhere on earth—from civic receptions on the steps of City Hall, with the Street Cleaners' band giving out "Pomp and Circumstance," to the current excavation of poor old harassed Sixth avenue for a new subway. Probably the most amusing, yet pathetic, gratis entertainment is that put on each fine evening in Columbus Circle where Elizah Avenue, Fifty-ninth Street
and Central Park come together.

In that great open space a dozen or more prophets of every inconceivable type harangue the crowds that drift from one tent to the next. Each has a soap box, a faded American flag and a message. The other night I heard a free-lance philosopher sound off
on every subject that wandered through his jumbled mind, two or three radicals preaching the milk and honey wonders of their new world, a small and very soiled man telling three boys and a dog how to woo and win the girls of their choice, and a crackpot Super-Freudian who was illustrating his notion of the Viennese master's ideas with astounding chalk-drawings on a blackboard. And of course, there were two or three faded old ladies in faded black telling all who would listen momentarily of the Love of God.

It's amusing, yes—and it's also a profound and pretty morbid cynicism in the human desire to get it off the chest, whatever it may be. The traffic roars, the orators shout and sing, occasional bickering break out which arouse the bored
cop on duty—but no one pays much attention to anyone.

THE famous trio of Pickens girls whose radio warbling has been so popular is being busted, temporarily. Jane is in the current "Follies," with the other two applauding frantically on the sidelines. . . . Even New York cats are tough stuff, as Mr. Ferdinand Girard, enraged because a black tabby
was making passes at his pet turtle doves, learned when he tossed the animal out a fifth-story window on E. Eighty-first street. The cat, though startled got up and ran away, but Mr. Girard faced a magistrate and gave up $5 to the clerk.
The judge told Mr. Girard that he would have gone to the calaboose
if the cat had been a sissy and had become dead.

Anticipating a big-spending season hereabout, two of our tal-est hat hotels are actually going to have regular cabaret floor shows soon, with chorus girls and everything. The two gold-plated inns,
the Ritz and the Pierre, are going to see if they can't keep some of the playboys from being lured over to Broadway. . . . Good news for the kids. Dr. Shirley Wynne, formerly our health commissioner, blew up the spinach myth the other day.
Addressing a crowd of mothers, he said that a variety of green vegetables was far better than trying to bulldoze or coax a child into eating
the same one almost daily!

Of all our recent dog stories, by far the finest is that of a white poodle with a craving for beer. He lives with Florence Victoria Mac-Feeley in German Yorkville, and knows all the bartenders of the mally neighborhood. Recently, he was missing for 24 hours, and was discovered getting over a beer-bend
in Central Park. Miss MacFeeley, a pretty nurse, did not administer corporal punishment to the pup, but told reporters that "the dog had been drinking firmly on the water-cart for a good, round year."

Peanut Butter Cookies.

One-quarter cup butter, one-half cup peanut butter, one-half cup sugar, two eggs yolk, one cup sifted flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup milk, two egg whites stiffly beaten. Cream butter and peanut butter, add sugar and egg yolks and beat well. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Fold in beaten whites and drop by teaspoons on a well-greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven for 10 minutes.

Sautéed Kidneys.

Remove surplus fat and membrane from six lamb's kidneys. Soak over night in cold water. Put three tablespoons butter in a saucepan
and add two tablespoons grated onion, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and the kidneys cut into cubes. Stir until a nice brown.
Serve on hot toast. Add one tablespoon flour and a half cup of water to the pan and cook until smooth.
Pour over kidneys and serve.

Italian Cream.

Two cups milk, one-fourth cup sugar, one tablespoon gelatine, a pinch of salt, one teaspoon vanilla,
three eggs. Put milk on to boil,
cover gelatine with one-fourth cup
cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Beat egg yolks, sugar, salt and vanilla together and add to boiling milk. Add dissolved gelatine and strain into a bowl. Fold in the stiffly whipped egg whites and pour into sherbet glasses to be set. Before the emphasis

TEMPLE ISRAEL --- SHRINE OF AN IDEAL

Youngest of the Reformed Jewish Congregations in St. Louis to Celebrate Golden Jubilee of Founding of Synagogue Dedicated to Progressive Judaism

TEMPLE ISRAEL (TOP), PRESENT HOME OF THE CONGREGATION AT KINGSHIGHWAY AND WASHINGTON BOULEVARDS. THE LATE DR. LEON HARRISON, LEFT BELOW, WHO FOLLOWED RABBI SONNESCHIN, AND, RIGHT, RABBI FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN, PRESENT LEADER OF THE TEMPLE.

ON a certain day in the late autumn of 1886, a man no longer
young, but with all the eagerness of youth, stood before a little band of 45 men and women who believed in his modern and liberal views, and accepted the invitation
to become their spiritual leader.
The weeks of discussion in Temple Shalom had come to an end, and the Rabbi Solomon S. Sonneschein had chosen to start anew with a handful of followers rather than modify his views to suit the conservative element of his old congregation. And together—Rabbi Sonneschein and the little group of men and women who shared his progressive ideas—they founded Temple Israel and pledged themselves "to support the principles of progressive Judaism in the Jew."
That, briefly, is the story of the founding of Temple Israel, which was organized around the dynamic personality of one man, and grew to be, in 50 years, one of the most influential religious and cultural centers in the United States.

Today, preparations are under way at Temple Israel for the celebration of a Golden Jubilee, and on the evening of Oct. 9, Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman will officially open the week of thanksgiving with a jubilee sermon and the offering of prayers for the little band of far-sighted men and women who, 50 years ago, had the courage to face
the pangs of parting from the synagogue of their fathers and follow
the brilliant and forceful man whose ideals would allow no compromise. On Oct. 10, fiftyth anniversary of the founding of the Temple, a Jubilee Dinner will be held in the Gold Room of the Jefferson Hotel, with a jubilee address by Rabbi Sam H. Goldenson, rabbi of New York's Temple Emmanuel,
largest Jewish synagogue in the world, and speeches by Bishop William Scarlett, Archbishop John J.
Glennon and the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt. Preparation for other events of the jubilee are nearing completion, and a booklet commemorating the Fiftyth Anniversary of the Temple and tracing the history of Judaism in St. Louis has been completed.

Beginning with the Rabbi Son-neschein, the history of Temple
Israel has been largely the story of three brilliant men and their contributions to the cause of liberal religion. Before the emphasis placed by Sonneschein, the late Rabbi Leon Harrison, and the present Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman, on the universalism of, rather than parochialism in, religion, denominational boundaries faded and from those early days back in 1886, Temple Israel has been the place where Jews and Gentiles and unbelievers, alike, have gone to listen not only to sermons but to lectures on all subjects of interest to all men.

It was Rabbi Sonneschein who inaugurated the practice of giving Sunday morning lectures. Departing from the ancient Hebrew
custom of conducting services only on Friday evening and Saturday morning, the illustrious Rabbi caused a furor in Jewish circles
in the city by daring to speak to non-Jewish groups. But his Sunday morning lectures, delivered in both English and German, at the old Temple at Twenty-eighth and Pine streets, drew the attention of the civic, cultural and religious leaders of the community and made him a conspicuous figure in the city's life.

Always an idealist, Rabbi Son-neschein delivered many lectures around his belief "that the greed of a few will be unable to prevent the American ideals of the many" and his last words in the last interview he granted before his death and many years after he left the lectern of Temple Israel
were the reaffirmation of his philosophy—"In humble surroundings
one can be an idealist as well as he can on the pinnacle of achievement and success."

The Temple Israel entered upon what might be called the second chapter of its history when the Rabbi Leon Harrison, who was to become one of the greatest ecclesiastical orators of the nation, succeeded to the pastorate. At 21, Rabbi Harrison had already distinguished himself by the masterful oration he delivered at the funeral of Henry Ward Beecher, and Temple Israel, which had contributed generously to the memorial fund in honor of the man whom John Hay called
"the greatest preacher the world had seen since St. Paul," preached on Mars Hill," decided that the young Rabbi Harrison was the one person who could fill the place of Rabbi Sonneschein and carry on in the footsteps of the man who had ledged himself to the popular and the progressive Judaism in St. Louis. A short, blue-eyed young man,

Punctuality Is Essential For Children

Teaching This Virtue Early in Life Proves Helpful in Later Years.

By Angelo Patri

"WHAT? You late again, Miriam?"
"Yes'm. I couldn't help
it."

"What is the matter? This is the fourth time you have been late this month. You've spoiled the class record, and you ought to be ashamed of yourself. The only one late and the whole class has to be marked down.
What is the matter?"

"Our clock was slow."
"Hmpf. Go to your seat. Didn't you hear the 8
o'clock whistle?"
Everybody else in town did."

Poor Miriam! Angelo Patri
was not clock-
minded because nobody had ever taught her to be. In her home the clock was not wound regularly, somebody should have attended to it, but nobody did. Meals were too late or too early, but nobody minded. It just didn't matter. But it mattered a great deal to this child who was learning disregard time schedules. The community moves on schedule time, and the person who cannot do so is going to be sadly inconvenienced.

But then Miriam is not the only one who is not clock-minded. There is Miss Susan who teaches Fifth grade.

"Now, Louise, do get home on time for lunch. I take a great deal of trouble to have things cooked just right and served on time, and if you are late the whole meal is spoiled."

"I do the very best I can,
mother. I ran all the way home yesterday, but when Miss Susan doesn't hear the bell we just can't do anything about it. Almost every day somebody pokes his head inside the door and says, 'The bell rang, Miss Susan.' She just doesn't mind the bell. If she wants to finish something she finishes it, bell or no bell. What can we do?"

NOT a thing. The class must go right along until Miss Susan gives the "stop work" signal. She thinks a few seconds or even minutes do not matter so much anyway. And the lesson is important. All lessons are important, and being punctual is one of the most important ones. Children are not permitted to be late a single second. Why then should they not be dismissed
as promptly? They should be. No matter how important the point, it should not be made after the dismissal bells ring. The lessons should be timed so as to finish within the set time. When something prevents that the time schedule is not to be violated so as to make dismissal late.

Teachers expect children to be present on time. So do mothers.
Lessons are fitted to the time schedule. So are meals. Teachers expect children to be where their program calls for them to be. So do mothers, and when the program
calls for them to be home at 12:15,
they expect them to be there.

Punctuality is one of the essential virtues. It establishes the rhythm of life without which there can be no health of mind or body.
It supports the spirit when the body feels lame or lazy. It strengthens character and establishes reputation for responsibility. The clock stands high among the household necessities. Punctuality stands equally high among the character traits. Appoint a clock window if you need one, but mind the clock.

Angelo Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care
and development of children.
Write him in care of this paper,
enclosing a three cent stamped,
self-addressed envelope for reply.

Heroes in File Cabinets

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

BASEBALL has had its best year. If you live in the right city. Baseball is an outdoor exhibition of four-cornered gymnastics invented by Colonel Abner Doubleday at Troy, N. Y., about a century ago. In those days it was known as one-old-cat.

One-old-cat became very popular among the players. But things have changed so much since then that you can't even call the umpire that.

We have followed baseball now for 40 years and are still optimistically saving a rain check for the Federal League. We think that entitles us to expound on the subject of baseball. And we always claimed you ain't seen a lefthander if you ain't seen Rube Waddell. Walter Johnson takes care of the righthanders.

You never saw an infidel if you never got a load of Lajoie. Nap never used two hands except to clip himself a chew of tobacco. If you never saw Tris Speaker go back for a fly ball, then you ain't got a chance of winning an argument in our grocery store.

If you never saw Sawyer coaching, then you missed the funniest man in baseball. Sawyer was a shortstop in the summer and a circus clown in the winter and was going good until he got his calendar mixed up.

An article like this enrages the younger generation and classifies us as an evaporated ostrich with his head buried in the reminiscent sands and his tail feathers being curled by the heat of the pitiless sun that knows no yesterday. It is not dearth of illustrious names that prevents us from annoying you further, but only lack of space.

Asserts in Syracuse Speech New Deal Has Preserved System of Private Property and Averted Revolution.

TURN COMMUNISM BACK ON THE G. O.

In Indirect Attack on London He Declares Republicans Do Not Oppose Way Job Is Being Done But Doing Job at All.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Describing himself as a true "conservative," preserving a system of private property and free enterprise by correcting "such injustices and inequalities as arise from it," President Roosevelt last night flung back at his political opponents the charge of Communism.

By doing nothing in the face of grave economic crisis the Hoover administration made the development of Communism possible, the President told 10,000 Democrats who crowded into the New York State Armory here. In a series of vivid phrases the President called the "fears that beset the country at the bottom of the depression and then pointed to the record of his administration as proof that the New Deal had averted revolution.

"We were against revolution," Roosevelt said. "Therefore, we waged war against those conditions which make revolutions against the inequalities and the resentments which breed them. In America in 1933, the people did not attempt to remedy wrongs by overthrowing their institutions. Americans were made to realize that wrongs could and would be set right within their institutions."

More than an hour before the President was scheduled to speak the Armory was packed to capacity with a cheering, howling, wildly enthusiastic convention crowd. Several thousand were massed outside, kept in check by mounted police. Inside the hall the confusion of shouting and cheering was so great that it was with difficulty that sufficient quiet was established to enable the President to begin his address over a nationwide broadcasting network.

Several minutes the President stood in a glare of floodlights waving to the crowd.

The address was a skillful, phrased speech calculated to call attention to the present phase of returning prosperity almost by direction. He charged the Republicans with using Communism as a "red herring" to obscure the issue of the campaign. Citing charges of extremism brought against Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson in past political battles, the President denounced "the support of any advocate of Communism or of any other alienism which would by fair means or foul change our American democracy." To drive home the point against his "reactionary" critics he used a comical figure of speech.

Lost: A Silk Hat.

"In the summer of 1933," he said, "a nice old gentleman wearing a silk hat fell off the end of a pier. He was unable to swim. A friend ran down the pier, dived overboard and pulled him out, but the silk hat floated off with the tide. After the old gentleman had been resuscitated he was effusive in his thanks. He praised his friend for saving his life. Today, three years later, the old gentleman is berating his friend because the silk hat was lost."

But in the serious phase of his speech, toward the end, he made use of his own political definition to emphasize the central theme of his half hour address—that only the Democrats are capable of preserving American institutions because only the Democrats are aware of the need for change.

"Liberalism," the President said, "becomes the protection for the far-sighted conservative."

No Hint of Future.

There was no indication in the speech of what future policies may be expected other than the reiteration that the present administration
